CORCORAN ON TRIAL AS BLACKMAILER

ACTRESS HAS DIVORCED BIGELOW

MR. AND MRS. S. SOHIER BIGELOW

FAMOUS FLYER'S WIFE SET FREE

Anne Meredith Bigelow, the actress wife of Stephen Sohier Bigelow, Boston banker's son, is now completely free of him. Her divorce became absolute today in Paris. There the former stage beauty is said to be living. In divorcing Bigelow she dispelled from her life one of the outstanding heroes of the war, so far as Boston was concerned.

He was a flier with the famous Lafayette Esquadrille during the early days of the World War, later joining the American Expeditionary forces. He is the son of Joseph S. Bigelow, well known banker and clubman. He has a home on Commonwealth avenue, and is a director in several banks.

His marriage to the stunning Anne Meredith, herself a daughter of a distinguished New York family, came as a surprise to society.

They were quietly married, with

13,000 IRISH TO GO ON HUNGER STRIKE

Belfast, Ireland, Oct. 17.—More than 13,000 prisoners in Irish jails are to pledge themselves to go on a hunger strike.

It will end in either death or victory.

Death will promote a cause such as will surely shake the nation and profound the world.

This, the greatest hunger strike ever undertaken, is planned on a gigantic challenge to the Irish Free State, officials of which are responsible for the incarceration of the thousands.

It follows the action of 535 soldiers imprisoned in Mountjoy jail in Dublin who went on a hunger

$40,000 WHISKEY SEIZURE FOLLOWS PINCHOT'S WARNING

New York, Oct. 17.—The eighty-foot motor schooner Three Links, carrying $40,000 worth of whiskey and a crew of four, was captured today by a Federal Customs speed boat, which was reported to have been assigned to special rum fleet duty immediately after the recent declaration of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania on Federal responsibility for prohibition enforcement.

CONSTABLE AND SHERIFF DEAD IN GUN DUEL IN STREET

Marshall, Tex., Oct. 17.—The sheriff of Marion County and the constable of Jefferson met on the main street here and without a word shot each other to death.

Both men, B. B. Rodgers, the sheriff, and W. B. Prator, the constable, were past fifty years of age.

The constable shoved the sheriff against a water hydrant, the few persons who witnessed the shooting told the police. He whipped out his pistol and fired.

Shots from the constable's pistol crossed with those of Rodgers. The constable shot the sheriff through the head while the latter was stumbling and slipping to the ground.

The trouble arose because court papers given the constable were not served.

COST OF LIVING GOING UP; CLOTHING SHOWS ADVANCE

Washington, Oct. 17 (I.N.S.)—The cost of living is advancing again. Wholesale prices have advanced nearly 2% per cent. in September, as compared with August, in marked contrast with the downward trend in progress since May, the Department of Labor announced today.

Clothes and clothing showed the greatest increase over the preceding month, amounting to 4½ per cent, and was due mainly to the marked advances in raw silk, peint cloths and cotton yarns.

MYSTERIOUS NOTE TO GIRL TELLS OF BROTHER'S DEATH

Lawrence, Oct. 17.—Miss Louise Rondeau, twenty-five years old, of No. 22 Farley street, today turned over to the police a mysterious letter postmarked "Thousandpoint, N. Y.", which told of the deaths of her brother and his companion in a forest camp.

Two huge bears invaded the camp, the letter related, and "chewed up" two of the campers. The writer escaped. He bemoaned the fact that he proved a coward, but declared there was not a chance for any of them, so he ran away.

He described how Miss Rondeau's brother "Al" was killed in a desperate battle with one of the bears. The letter signed "A Friend of Your Brother," Miss Rondeau's brother is in the army, stationed near Tacoma.

GASOLINE PRICE CUT 3 CENTS BY TWO BIG COMPANIES

New York, Oct. 17—Cuts in the price of gasoline in New Jersey and Massachusetts were announced today by the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and New York and the Texas company, bringing their prices in line with those announced yesterday by the Gulf Refining Company.

The cut in New Jersey was 3 cents a gallon, making the tank wagon price 18½ cents a gallon. In Massachusetts the tank wagon price was reduced 3 cents a gallon to 15½ cents.

ASKS PROBE OF STOKES' WITNESSES

Untermyer Demands Investigation of Those Who Admit Lying on Stand

New York, Oct. 17 (I.N.S.)—Demand for a Grand Jury investigation of all witnesses who have so far testified in the divorce trial of William Earl Dodge Stokes, seventy-three-year-old millionaire turf man, against his young wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, was made on District Attorney J. A. Banton by Samuel Untermyer, chief of Mrs. Stokes' counsel, today.

Untermyer, in making his request, produced a statement signed by Joseph Ross, a Chicago Italian, in which it is charged various sums of money were paid members of the Chicago underworld to appear as witnesses against Mrs. Stokes.

Ross' sister-in-law, Anna Francesa, a former maid in the employ of Edgar T. Wallace, the correspondent in the case, was to be a witness again today.

FALSE STATEMENTS

The maid on her direct testimony told of seeing Mrs. Stokes in the Wallace "Love Nest" on a number of occasions. Her testimony was identical to that of other witnesses, who told of "fleeting glim" of a red haired woman who visited Wallace's rooms during the period between 1914 and 1918.

Three witnesses so far have admitted false statements on the stand. It was on these admissions Untermyer demanded a Grand Jury probe.

Stokes almost fell over himself in his eagerness to testify in his divorce suit to prove the young mother of his children Helen Elwood Stokes, "a loose woman."

Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Stokes, who had brought out that six of Stokes' witnesses had signed affidavits and returned them to Stokes, insisted that these affidavits be produced, and while the discussion was still on Stokes arose on his seventy-three-year-old legs and strated for the witness box.

Over the protests of his attorney, Max D. Steuer, Stokes was questioned by Untermyer.

The court interrupted the orator.

RECEIVE DAYLIGHT SPIRIT MESSAGES

New York, Oct. 17.—For the first time in history spirits have been communicated with in broad daylight.

The Rev. Mrs. Josie K. Stewart, pastor of the First Independent Church of Cleveland before an audience of distinguished scientists produced spirit writing in a daylight seance in a Long Island flower garden.

The writings came on cards as the spiritualist preacher sat pale hand clasped on the arm of a woman, the hand of a man pressed against the base of her skull.

Sitting tense, Mrs. Stewart, fat and plump and earthly looking, shouted aloud: "The waves are passing through me. See, do see. There they are now. Look at the cards."

The cards spread out on a sol

DRUGGED GIRL TRIES SUICIDE WITH STEEL FROM CORSET

Miss Helen Monte, employed in the laundry of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, took an overdose of veronal. She wandered about the city and into the Back Bay railroad station.

Detectives noticed her unusual actions. A matron followed her into the women's room and found her very ill. She was taken to the East Dedham street police station and then to the House of Detention.

Miss Monte couldn't stand the shame. She took a stay-at of her corset, sharpened it, and dashed her wrist in an effort to end her life. She was sent to the Relief Hospital. Physicians say she will recover.

JILTED LOVER SLAYS CHILD OF WOMAN WHO REFUSED HIM

Berlin, Oct. 17 (I.N.S.).—Heinrich Schaper, a forty-year-old shoemaker, is a fugitive from justice today after taking frightful revenge for being jilted.

Schaper fell in love with his landlady, but she refused to marry him. To take revenge, he choked her seven-year-old daughter with a cord, then crushed her head with half a dozen blows from a heavy hammer.

Then he placed the child in a bed, carefully covering her as wiping the blood from her face. When the mother returned she thought her daughter asleep until she tried to awaken her.

GALE LASHES PACIFIC COAST; SHIPS AND CREWS IN PERIL

Portland, Ore., Oct. 17.—The steam schooner Casamont was drifting helplessly today in an eighty-two mile gale near the rocks off North Head, near the mouth of the Columbia River. The vessel reported her deckload washed overboard, her small boats smashed, her steering gear out of commission, bulges leaking and engines disabled. Numerous efforts of rescue vessels were nullified by the high seas.

The Swedish steamer Rosen bat tled with the waves all night after part of her deckload began to shift.

Three New Women Witnesses Appear as "Gang" Faces the Court

William J. (Big Bill) Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex County, went on trial today before Judge Quinn in Superior Court with other members of the alleged "blackmail ring."

The trial started after some delay due to the fact that William H. Flaherty, counsel for one of the defendants, had a case before Judge Cox in civil court and Judge Cox was at first loath to postpone it. He finally agreed to do so.

Three women whose names had not appeared previously in the case, were in court. They will be used as corroborative witnesses by the State if necessary.

They are Miss Evangeline Weed.

GIRL AND MARRIED MAN ARE MISSING

Dover, N. H., Oct. 17.—The police of New England have been requested to be on the lookout for fourteen-year-old Alice Mitchell, an orphan living with Mrs. Warren Woods of South Pine street, and also Frank James, thirty-three years old, married, No. 7 Charles street, this city, who, his wife reports, had packed his bag Sunday preparatory to leaving for Charleston, S. C., and has not been heard from since.

DAVIS BOY FOUND; KIDNAPED, HE SAYS

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 17.—George Davis, fifteen years old, son of Edward Davis of East Candia, who disappeared from his home in that town last week and whose father received a letter from him, stating that he had been kidnaped by masked men, was found at the home of an aunt in this city.

In his story to the police the boy clung to the kidnaping story and declared he had been taken all over New Hampshire by unknown abductors in an automobile.

ASKS STOKES WITNESS PROBE

ral fireworks of the two lawyers, with "I allow him to explain."

Stokes took the witness stand as a result of the presentation as alleged evidence of a four-page affidavit, produced by Stokes.

That affidavit reeked in every line with accusations of the vilest nature against Mrs. Stokes and Clarence McCormick, a banker. It purported to be signed by Anna McIntosh, co'ored laundress.

While the full contents of the affidavit were suppressed by Justice Mahoney after the laundress denied that she had ever signed her name to it, the part read to the jury before the laundress' startling repudiation disclosed that Stokes charged in the document that his wife took part in drinking orgies in apartments here and in Bethel, Conn. Names of men and women never before mentioned by Stokes were implicated in the occurrences described in the paper.

The affidavit was one of a number of seven statements recently put before a Supreme Court justice in Stokes' application to amend the complaint on his divorce action—on the grounds of newly discovered evidence. On each of the pages the signatures of Anna McIntosh, repudiated, appears at the bottom.

STOKES ON STAND

Stokes himself was put on the stand by Samuel Untermyer, chief of counsel for Mrs. Stokes with, the consent of Justice Mahoney, to explain the present whereabouts of a few of the 1,200 statements he obtained from witnesses throughout the country, some of which accuse Mrs. Stokes of infidelity at a time when she was six years old.

His examination by Untermyer was postponed before he could be questioned about the repudiated affidavit.

During his brief examination the grizzled veteran of the law courts took refuge behind answers that he "failed to recollect" what became of the depositions made in his office by the colored witnesses now being called against Mrs. Stokes. Untermyer explained that he was anxious to obtain these statements to compare them with the present array of testimony.

NECKTIE ASKEW

Stokes walked to the stand with ponderous step. His face was flushed and his hair ruffled, his little black "lazy-bow" necktie slightly askew. He got his right and left hands mixed up when court attendants started to administer the oath.

Once seated, he leaned forward in respectful attention, playing with a shell-framed pince-nez with his fingers.

Even Untermyer felt the excitement of the moment. Mrs. Stokes' counsel, despite his years of experience, had a quiver in his voice and his hands trembled as he began to question the man whose multifarious charges against his client he was trying to refute.

Q.—You're the plaintiff in this action? A.—I am.

Q.—You have been subpoenaed to produce certain papers? A.—I have been subpoenaed, yes. But I have not yet read the subpoenas.

COUNSEL IN JAM

And then, before a third question could be asked, Untermyer and Max D. Steuer, chief of counsel for Stokes, were in throes of the first of a long series of heated arguments. Untermyer paced up and down nervously. Steuer stood before the bench, talking loudly. Half a dozen assistants of Untermyer rummaged about among files of papers. They were all talking at once, loudly.

Justice Mahoney restored order, raising his hands for quiet and in a patient voice crying, "Proceed."

Q.—Did you take written statements? A.—I did.

Q.—Where are they?

Again heated objections from Steuer and more wrangling by counsel. The Court asked that the statements be asked for individually. Stokes was leaning far forward, his brows knit.

Q.—Did you take a statement from Anna McIntosh? A.—I did, sir.

NOT QUITE CERTAIN

Q.—Please produce the statement you took from her before the first trial. Didn't you take one before the first trial? A.—I don't think I did.

W. E. D. Stokes. Mrs. Stokes.

Q.—Didn't you take one before the first trial? A.—I do not recollect.

Q.—Did you look to see? A.—I didn't look to see. I only took one statement.

By this time witness and lawyer were barking at each other and Stokes' answers were made with an unmistakable curl of his upper lip.

Q.—Didn't you take a number of statements from various witnesses? A.—I have (evidently meaning) I did.

Q.—Did you take one from Agricola Byers? (Miss Byers is a negro witness for Stokes.) A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you take one from Joseph A. Thornton? (Thornton is a negro janitor, a witness for Stokes.) A.—I think not.

LOOKS FOR PAPERS

"Please produce the statements you took," demanded Untermyer, and Stokes left the stand momentarily to get a portfolio, filled to overflowing with papers, from his counsel's table. He put on his glasses and began to finger the papers.

Q.—Is there one from Thornton? A.—I have none.

Q.—Did you never take one? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you take statements from other witnesses, from Lillian Payne, Mrs. Anna Doering, Elmer E. Henshaw? A.—I think not; maybe my lawyers took them.

Q.—Did you take one from Miss McIntosh? A.—Yes.

Q.—From A. S. Mills of Bunceton? A.—Yes.

Q.—From Nellie Rose Miller? A.—Yes.

All this amidst intermittent argument between the two lawyers, which ended in the production of several of the missing papers, though not all.

Anna McIntosh, who testified Monday she had seen Mrs. Stokes three times at the Wallace apartment, had her credibility viciously attacked by Untermyer. At one stage she admitted she had sworn to a falsehood at the last trial. Untermyer forced her to say she told the falsehood "deliberately."

She had testified at first that she saw Mrs. Stokes with Wallace three times. Then she said it was only twice.

She said "Someone" had told her to leave Miss Ida Adams' name out of her testimony. It was at Miss Adams' house that she had testified she saw Mrs. Stokes the third time.

Then she repudiated her signature on the sensational four-page affidavit.

WITNESS PEEPER

Mrs. Anna Francese, a colored charwoman, who worked for "two and a half weeks" at the Edgar T. Wallace apartment, in February, 1918, is to be cross-examined by Untermyer, when the divorce suit is resumed.

Anna, a widow, testified on direct examination that she saw Mrs. Stokes about six times on the stairs leading to the Wallace apartment, though never actually in the apartment. She saw her, she said, "by peeking between the banisters."

no announcement of an engagement. The ceremony took place in the home of Mrs. Jay Jackson at Great Neck in May, 1921. Not until Mrs. Bigelow sued for divorce in Paris on the grounds of "indifference" two years later did it become known that the couple were wed. She sued in June in the Seine Tribunal, where so many American women have gone to shed their mates.

Young Bigelow during the war distinguished himself on several occasions, once beating off two German planes and making his own lines safely through bursting shrapnel. He also came into prominence when he endeavored to bring Georges Carpentier, French pugilist, to the United States for a theatrical tour. The fighter elected to remain at the front.

psychologist and teacher of languages, of No. 7 Marlboro street, Boston.

Mrs. Mary Louise Lyons said to have been secretary of a drug firm organized by the "ring."

Mrs. Lillian Danforth of Revere, by, said to have been victimized by Omar Kaldar, Egyptian mystic who was indicted, but never has been captured.

She have him information with which the ring worked, it is alleged by the government.

The other defendants are Leo Corcoran, brother of "Big Bill"; Harry E. Levenson, Michael J. Lyons, J. Warren Kane, Theodore Bears, Francis Duggan and Mrs. Theresa Duggan, Francis' former wife.

Mrs. Lillian Besse, better known as Lilly Hardy, also was in the court room, but only as a witness. She will be the star performer for the State. She was not indicted last year because of the evidence which she furnished to investigators.

Each side in the trial has 204 challenges and it is expected it will require at least a whole day to obtain a jury.

Corcoran and his co-defendants are accused of conspiring to extort $35,000 by threats from James L. Donovan, wealthy Boston leather merchant, and $15,000 from a man named Curtis, who is said to have been a resident of New Hampshire. His full name never has appeared.

The defendants, each with separate counsel, appeared in the court-room and a half weeks" at the Edgar T. Wallace apartment, in February, 1918, is to be cross-examined by Untermyer, when the divorce suit is resumed.

Anna, a widow, testified on direct examination that she saw Mrs. Stokes about six times on the stairs leading to the Wallace apartment, though never actually in the apartment. She saw her, she said, "by peeking between the banisters."

strike in protest against the withdrawal of their privileges as prisoners of war.

Their hunger strike started a few days ago.

The new strike is expected to be brought about through the circulation of a Republican manifesto. Citing that 13,000 persons are in jails throughout Ireland the manifesto continues:

"When the hunger strike spreads to the other camps and prisons the people may be prepared to be shaken from their apathy by a tragedy or a victory unparalled in the history of the nation."

The manifesto states that all the Mountjoy prisoners have taken this oath.

"I pledge myself in the name of the living republic that I will not take food or drink anything but water until I am unconditionally released."

GERMAN FOOD rioters attack the stock exchange and the City Hall in Berlin. Bayonets hold them in control.

DR. SAUERBRUCH, noted Munich surgeon, has left in a flying machine for Moscow to treat Trotzky for cancer of the stomach. That's the latest Trotzky news.

You will probably hear tomorrow that he is organizing another army. Soviet leaders are not easily killed, apparently.

STOCK SPECULATORS had a bad day yesterday. We get the faint echo here of Europe's troubles. Hundreds of millions of Europeans, formerly our best customers, are shivering on the edge of, they don't know what. It may be bankruptcy on a new scale, revolution all over Europe, more war. Anything may come.

In Germany the price of the loaf of bread jumps four hundred and forty million marks in a day. That number of marks would have been one hundred and ten million dollars before the war. No telling what will happen to men, when their money goes as crazy as that.

EVEN NATURE seems to be fighting against miserable men. In South Africa, a deadly drought and scorching wind storms have dried up the water supply, while locusts, in swarms, have destroyed green plants. It is feared that all cattle will die.

WAR, DISEASE, earthquakes, droughts, money panics, tidal waves, and, most of all, human beings and nations intent only on robbing and killing each other.

Certain philosophers have thought that among planets there might be some very sick, as there are sick individuals among human beings. This must be one of the sickest planets.

DOCTORS IN PARIS announce the discovery of a microbe that causes measles. It is shaped like a cork-screw, as is the germ of the most dreaded blood disease, and can exist only where certain other bacteria exist.

Wonderful discoveries we are making. If some doctors would find the germ that causes war, and an anti-toxin to conquer it, that would help Europe even more than ending measles.

THE POLES and the Turks have signed a treaty of "perpetual peace," and the document was probably signed on both sides without a smile.

It's a good treaty for the present, however, for with Russia getting stronger and wanting Poland on one side, the Dardanelles and the door into the Mediterranean on another, Poles and Turks will hang together or take their chances separately.

A FIGHT in the bootleggers' trust cuts the price of moonshine whiskey to four dollars a gallon in some parts of Pittsburgh. Whiskey at a dollar a gallon may come if the price war keeps up. That's dangerous news to American stomachs.

Whiskey has been made for less than thirty cents a gallon, actual cost. Conditions may become worse than in the days of Thomas Jefferson. He advocated light wines and beer as a remedy for drunkenness. We are trying prohibition, and won't know for a generation how that will work.

BIG CLEANUP BY BROKERS BEFORE CRASH

How 15,000 Customers Were Victimized Is Revealed at Hearing

New York, Oct. 17.—Customers of the bankrupt brokerage firm of S. S. Ruskay & Co. suffered a staggering loss of $10,000,000 through the collapse of the firm in February, 1922, proceedings instituted in behalf of the creditors' committee before Referee in Bankruptcy Harold D. Coffin revealed.

Figures heretofore placed the loss at something like half that amount.

The hearing also establish definitely for the first time the extent to which the brokerage firm of Sartorius, Smith & Loewi had been interested in the activities of the defunct concern.

STAGED BIG "CLEAN-UP."

It was also shown with what panicky haste the officials of the Ruskay outfit had dumped onto the market the securities owned by their customers in the days just prior to the failure—days which were utilized by the firm to cash in on all securities for the final big "clean-up."

Herman J. Hayes, accountant and auditor for the receiver and trustee, brought to light the exact figures of the astounding loss inflicted on the 15,000 customers of the Ruskay firm.

Hayes, called to the witness stand by Attorney S. Marshall Kronheimer, representing the trustee, declared that his examination of the Ruskay accounts had indicated that the failure was probably the largest of the series which has marked the past two years of uncertainty in Wall street. He said:

PATRONS SOLD OUT.

According to the firm's books there should have been $10,000,000 in securities belonging to the customers in the firm's cash box. Instead of that amount I found but $300,000 in securities and about $150,000 in cash.

"The firm had sold its patrons' securities, but had continued charging the patrons the usual 6 per cent. interest, with, in some instances, an additional clearing charge of one-half of one per cent.

"Assuming that the firm was making such charges on approximately $8,000,000 worth of securities that it did not possess, it is evident they were making $480,000 yearly through charges on non-existent balances."

SEARCH HEARSE FOR RUM AT FUNERAL

Milford, Ct., Oct. 17.—The funeral cortege of James Fuller, fifty, Union Hill garage owner, who died of heart disease on October 11 at his home in Weehawken, N. J., was stopped here on its way to Hampton and searched for contraband liquor. Mrs. May Fuller, the widow, who was accompanying her husband's body, fainted.

Chief of Police Maher of Milford stopped the procession and directed the search. He said he had received a tip from a resident of the neighboring village of Devon that the coffin and mass of flowers contained bottled booze. He found none.

SCOTS CONDEMN IMMIGRATION LAW

Clan McGregor of Quincy, comprising more than 1,000 members and one of the largest Massachusette units of the Order of Scottish Clans, has just adopted a series of resolutions scoring the 3 per cent. immigration restriction law as most unjust and disadvantageous of Great Britain and northwest Europe.

STEEPLEJACK DIES WHILE HIGH IN AIR

Stricken from a fatal attack of heart trouble on the steeple of the Unitarian Church at Wayland Center, George B. Akers, sixty-two-year-old steeplejack of No. 241 Cambridge street, Allston, was lowered fifty feet to the street in a telephone lineman's belt by the members of the Wayland fire department.

APPEALS FOR COURT AID IN KIDNAPING OF TWO

Legal machinery is being started by Percy W. Flanders, Somerville salesman, in an effort to be awarded custody of his three children, one of whom, Rebecca, aged six, was kidnaped while on her way to school Friday.

The children's mother, Mrs. Mildred Flanders, who appeared at Goffstown, N. H., with little Rebecca, the day of the spiriting away of the child, later to disappear with both Rebecca and Herbert, aged three, now has won two-thirds of her boast.

"She boasted that she would have all her children with her by this Fall," Flanders told an American reporter.

"I am now having little Tommy four years old, guarded night and day, fearing she will attempt to kidnap him," said the father. "I do not even allow him out of the house since Rebecca was stolen."

NO RULING ON CHILDREN.

When Mrs. Flanders won a divorce last January, on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, nothing was said in the decree of the court regarding custody of the children. Flanders claims. Friends of Mrs. Flanders admit this to be true.

Flanders' attorney, J. W. Pickering, will make efforts to get the case again before Chief Justice Hall of Suffolk Superior Court, for an official decision, awarding the custody of the three children to the father.

Prior to the divorce, Mrs. Flanders took Herbert to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Waite, near Goffstown, N. H., where he remained until taken away with Rebecca, following the kidnaping.

BLOND MAN IDENTIFIED.

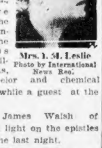
The Waites said no arrangement was made as to whether either of the children would be brought back to them or not.

Mrs. Flanders' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Chase, live at West Campton, N. H. Neither the Waites nor the husband believe she has gone there.

Mr. Flanders says he has identified the "big, blond man," alleged to have scooped the child from the street, as a man known as Fred Shaw, who formerly lived at No. 706 Tremont street, but who is now at that address.

WIDOW GRILLED AGAIN IN MAAS SHOOTING

New York, Oct. 17.—Love letters seized from Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, beautiful widow and former manicure now living luxuriously amid society at Sound Beach, Conn., again have popped into the limelight in connection with the mysterious shooting of Milton A. Maas, wealthy bachelor and chemical manufacturer, while a guest at the Leslie home.



Mrs. I. M. Leslie

Prosecutor James Walsh of Greenwich shed light on the epistles for the first time last night.

"They were written on pink stationery by a man," he said. "They are dated seven years ago. The writer, I have learned, married a short time ago. I have not questioned Mrs. Leslie as to why she has held these letters for such a long time."

Walsh announced he would question Mrs. Leslie on the shooting again. He has summoned her to appear at his office.

Meanwhile Sound Beach society is up in the air over the revelations of Mrs. Leslie as a former manicure in this city. Supposedly she has been a Southern society woman whose husband, a colonel, had died during the Spanish War.

When reporters questioned her about this she ordered an employe to put the reporters off her estate or have them arrested.

Maas, shot through the left shoulder and the abdomen, is reported resting comfortably at Stamford Hospital.

He has not been questioned by the prosecutor, and other than a brief statement to the police that he didn't know any reason why anyone should deliberately attempt to slay him, his version of the affair remains untold.

The family skeletons in the mystery may make it a closed incident today.

TAXI DRIVER GETS MAN WHO ELUDED POLICE FOR YEAR

After eluding the police of Newton, New Bedford, Worcester, Boston and Chelsea for more than a year William B. Goodwin, thirty-five years old, of No. 129 Washington street, Lynn, alleged worthless check passer, was arrested in Lynn.

He was turned over to Patrolman Humphries by Arthur Hilloran, a taxi driver, who charged he had received several worthless checks from Goodwin for taxi fares. He is also alleged to have passed bad checks on several Lynn firms. Goodwin is held in $2,000 bail.

EAST BOSTON BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH IN ELEVATOR WELL

Raphael DiAngeles, fifteen years old, of No. 75 Cottage street, East Boston, was killed when he was pinned between a freight elevator and a wall on the third floor of the Grass-Golden Co., shoe manufacturers, of No. 25 Vale street, Roxbury, where he was employed. The body was extricated by firemen from Ladder 12, summoned by Joseph W. Fay of No. 10 Millmont street, Roxbury, who discovered the boy.

MOROS SLAY 13 IN ATTACK ON SCHOOL IN PHILIPPINES

Manila, Oct. 17 (A.P.)—Another sanguinary outbreak of Moros in Lanao Province, Island of Mindanao, was reported here today, and the aid of United States troops was asked by the provincial authorities.

The advices said the Moros, charging on a schoolhouse at Lake Bulan, killed three teachers and ten members of the Philippine constabulary. The troops slain included a lieutenant and a sergeant and eight privates.

In the recent months the military authorities have been called on to suppress several outbreaks. Fifty-eight Moros were killed in various battles since last May, but until the present incident casualties among the constabulary had been nominal. The hatred of the Moros has been directed at the constabulary, composed of Filipinos, rather than at the American administration, and has been inspired by religious fanaticism.

New York—Mayor Hylan must remain absolutely quiet for the next two weeks. The mayor, who has suffered a slight relapse following the recent improvement in his illness, will not be allowed to attend to business.

'STABLE SHEIK' CHARGES HE WAS 'FRAMED'

In the face of testimony by witnesses at the hearing of the divorce petition filed by Neil L. Merrill against his wife in the ASlem Superior Court that they had observed improper relations between Mrs. Merrill and James Henwood, sixteen year-old stable "sheik," the latter took the stand and indignantly denied the charges. Henwood was formerly employed as stable boy by the Merrills.

The youthful co-respondent, on the contrary, intimated that he had been "framed," and accused Merrill of having invited him to his room one night and, in the presence of Mrs. Merrill, of having made a suggestion which caused him to leave the room indignant.

Merrill, denying the boy's charges, testified that he found him with his wife in her room one night when he returned late, unexpectedly. Since that night, Merrill said he has not lived with his wife.

Allen H. Ryan, a Salem electrician, testified to having spied on Mrs. Merrill one night with her husband. He declared that they saw Mrs. Merrill and the Henwood boy enter the house together. About twenty minutes later he said he raised a ladder against the house, ascended it, and peeped through a window.

Dorothy, the oldest of the four Merrill children, testified in her mother's behalf, declaring she had seen her father beat her mother frequently.

GASOLINE PRICE CUT 2 CENTS IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 17.—Gasoline was cut two cents a gallon here by all the big companies. This is the first radical cut to be made in the price of the product in this section. In view of the large announced surplus of gasoline on hand further cuts are expected.

WEST END MAN'S DEATH BY GAS IS MYSTERY

Thomas J. Shea, forty-five years old, is mysteriously dead, presumably from illuminating gas asphyxiation, in a rooming house at No. 17 Eaton street, West End, where he had lived for the past few months.

Shea's unconscious form was discovered on a couch in his gas-filled room by Mrs. Luelle Champeny, a lodger on the fourth floor, who smelled gas and traced it to Shea's room.

CALLED FIREMEN.

Believing there was fire in the building, Mrs. Champeny called the fire department.

Before the fire department arrived, Mrs. Champeny telephoned Dr. Mark T. Rittner.

Shea was carried to a room free from gas, and every effort made to resuscitate him.

Pulmotor was used for nearly three-quarters of an hour before Shea was pronounced dead.

Police found gas pouring from a wide open jet on a chandelier in the room. A thorough search failed to reveal any letters or notes to indicate Shea had contemplated suicide. The death is be accidental.

COMPLAINED OF ILLNESS.

From lodgers in the building it was learned that Shea, who is engaged in the teaming business, complained of illness and that he did not go to work.

During the months he has lived at the West End address, he was never known to be melancholy or despondent.

The dead man is believed to have been married. Lodgers in the house said his wife and two children live in Boston, but were not able to give their address.

BROWN'S OLDEST GRADUATE IS 101

ZANGWILL CALLS ON BRITAIN TO AID JEWS

New York, Oct. 17.—Israel Zangwill, Jewish author and playright, who was consured by prominent Jews for his criticism of conditions in Palestine and for his attitude toward Zionism, won a victory before the American Jewish Congress when his resolution calling upon Great Britain to remedy the conditions of all Jews under its jurisdiction, was adopted.

Israel Zangwill

The resolution demanded an end to the delay in a projected loan to develop Palestine in a fraternal spirit. Although it did not embody all the recommendations made by the Jewish Leader, still it looked toward the fulfillment of some of the hopes for which he has worked for years. The resolution was adopted only after a bitter debate.

One of the sections adopted predicted that large sums of money would be poured into Palestine by the Jews both on a philanthropic basis and by the way of organized capital and economic enterprises as soon as it became clear that a Jewish national home would ultimately come into being in the Holy Land.

CONNECTICUT TIME IN HIGHEST COURT

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 17.—A test case to find out if a statue adopted by the last General Assembly, imposing a penalty on any person who publicly exhibits time on a clock other than eastern standard time will go to the Supreme Court of Errors on a reservation.

A local jeweler who has a clock outside his store showed daylight saving time in the early Summer with a placard on the clock explaining that it was daylight saving time. He was fined $5.

The defendant contends the act is unconstitutional.

180 QUARTS OF CHAMPAGNE FOUND IN BROOKLINE SERVICE

Found in Brookline and the owner wanted; 180 quarts of sparkling, genuine, imported champagne—the kind that has been a total stranger hereabouts for a long time. The sparkling relics of other days came from an automobile in a stable at No. 447 ashington street, Brookline, after police were tempted to peek in when neighbors said "something mighty suspicious" was going on. Two-quarts of whiskey were also found. Abraham Glasier is owner of the stable. He said he rented it a week ago to a man who wished to use it as a garage. Chief of Police Rutherford at present has possession of the champagne and whiskey.

DUCK HUNTER DROWNED IN LAKE BOONE CANOE UPSET

Marlboro, Oct. 17.—Emile Duplessis, twenty-nine years old, of West Main street, was drowned in Lake Boone, near Hudson, and Lawrence Simmons, of Laconia, N. H., his companion, was nearly drowned when the canoe in which the two men were duck shooting overturned, half an hour. He was unable to explain the accident. Police are dragging the lake for the body of Simmons, who was rescued by Summen residents, after he had clung to the overturned canoe for more than Duplessis.

RUM SPRAY IS SENTENCE FOR TOPER

Miami, Fla., Oct. 17.—Everything he eats, wears, keeps on and washes in, will be sprayed in rum for the next ten days.

This is the sentence imposed on William Campbell of this city, who is better known as "Drunken Bill," by Municipal Judge Blanton in police court.

Campbell, arrested innumerable times for drunkenness, came up Monday for a hearing following his usual week-end spree.

The judge at first ordered him to hereafter spend Saturday afternoon and Sunday in jail for three months and to bring his pay check into court. Bill was released, and decided that since he could not dissipate on Sunday he would make it Monday, and the police found him in a stupefied condition.

Judge Blanton later imposed the ten-day sentence in a final effort to effect a cure.

Perhaps he is the most envied person in the arid United States, but the bailiffs, who will conduct the cure, assert Bill is already complaining that he would rather have Scotch or Irish perfume than Jamaica rum, and rum is his favorite drink.

POINTS SUCCESS OF GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

Government ownership of railways was declared a success by Sir Henry Worth Thornton, K. B. E., chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, at the initial meeting of the Traffic Club of New England at the Copley Plaza.

"This success can be attributed to the Canadian policy of government ownership," he said. "The Canadian government owns the properties of the Canadian National, but there is no active interference on the part of the government to interfere with the efficiency of the administration. "Actual operation of the railways is done by railway men, not politicians, and as a result Canadian roads are now operating at a profit.

POLITICIANS BLOCKED.

"In Canada we are conducting an experiment of government ownership, but not government operation of railways. The government owns the properties, and appoints real railway men to run them. This freedom from interference on the part of the railways from politicians is to be regarded as responsible for improvement of the roads.

"Government ownership of railways depends upon failure of privately owned railways to function in a three-fold way, especially necessary for good service," he said.

"In the first place privately owned railways are entitled to receive reasonably net receipts.

"Secondly, railways must be in condition to insure reasonable service to the public at reasonable rates.

"Thirdly, they must insure fair wages to employes under fair working conditions.

AIMS MUST BE REALIZED.

"If these aims are not realized, then the arteries of commerce are severed, and business ceases, and government ownership is the sole alternative. For, if adequate service is not maintained at reasonable rates, then the public clamors for government intervention.

"Whether any nation embarks upon a policy of government ownership depends largely to what extent it deviates or adheres to the mentioned three-fold objects of railway transportation."

F. B. Carvell, Chief Commissioner of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, speaking on "The Railway Problem of Canada," described the Canadian railway situation, and declared that a tremendous improvement has been brought about through government ownership.

MEDFORD'S $100,000 'HOLE IN THE GROUND'

ARCHITECT BAILEY

ARCHITECT OF MEDFORD CITY HALL HELD

Elmer Smith Bailey, architect, who drew up the plans for the new Medford City Hall which was never completed, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court on charges of graft in connection with the City Hall project.

Indicted with him were Benjamin P. Haines, former Mayor of Medford, and Michael Dyer, contractor for the building. They, too, have pleaded not guilty and are being held for trial.

Bailey reserved the right to change his plea within ten days. Bail was fixed at $2,500 by Judge Fred M. Sisk. He was indicted on six counts charging larceny, conspiracy and bribery.

The city of Medford appropriated $250,000 for the building of a new City Hall. After more than $100,000 of the money was spent in removing an old shack and putting in a foundation, citizens obtained a restraining order from the Supreme Court stopping the expenditure of more money.

On another: "How happy I should have been for such an opportunity as this." It was signed "William James."

On another was inscribed in a pinkish fluid: "May this demonstration be conclusive evidence of the return of spirits to the earth."

The nam ent a living New York acquaintance of the little medium was signed to this. There were other messages also, among them one signed William T. Stead.

Today the world of science and Spiritualism is agog.

SCIENTISTS REPORT.

Scientists acting for the Scientific American which witnessed the test in connection with the paper's offer of $2500 for the production of objective phenomena report that Mrs. Stewart has made out a prima facie case. The committee reported in part:

"Mrs. Stewart has made out a prima facie case. We are sufficiently well impressed to proceed further. There are two facts that stand out in connection with today's seance.

"The first is that we have not caught the medium in any blatant fraud. The second is that the writings produced were on what appears to be our own cards. It is impossible to say definitely, however, whether the alleged spirit messages and writing are genuine.

"Mrs. Stewart has been invited to submit herself to further tests and appears anxious to do so. The medoum must first prove to our complete satisfaction that the writings are genuine before she is entitled to the $2,500 award.

"There is no other medium, so far as is known, who offered to produce phenomena in broad daylight under the same conditions as Mrs. Stewart."

It was the third attempt of the plump little spiritualist preacher to produce a daylight connection with spirits. She had failed twice within two weeks, both times making attempts before the same group of scientists in the office of the Scientific American.

Her success came in the garden of Mrs. Ned Wayburn at Bayside, L. I. Those present were Rr. Walter Franklin Prince, principal research officer of the American Society for Psychical Research; Dr. Hereward Carrington, a research worker in psychical phenomena; Austin C. Lescarboura, managing editor of the Scientific American; J. Malcolm Bird, associate editor; A. G. Ingalas, a member of the staff; Mrs. Wayburn, her mother, Mrs. Kirby, and brother-in-law, Will Woods; Mr. Esther Walzer, a friend of Mrs. Stewart; a stenographer, and a photographer for the Scientific American.

Mrs. Stewart was dressed in a black satin gown, with flowing black and red silk panels. On her arrival at the house she asked that Mrs. Wayburn and Mrs. Kirby subject her to a thorough examination.

NOTHING CONCEALED.

"I do so want this test to be a success," she said, "and I want everyone to understand that I have nothing concealed about my person."

After the search, Mrs. Stewart said she felt cold and called for an overcoat. The observers then settled themselves on garden seats a few yards distant from her.

While the investigating committee kept a sharp lookout, Mrs. Stewart plucked from the neighboring flower beds phlox, asters and ferns. She was then handed the cards by Mrs. Bird.

"This is my last chance," said Mrs. Stewart in jocular tone. "I must make a success."

Mrs. Stewart placed the flowers, at intervals between the cards and then taking off one of her thick gold bangles laid it on top. A pitcher of water was brought her and a cloth so that she might wipe her hands. Then snapping her fingers in a manner peculiar to vaudeville magicians, she waited for results.

SCATTERS CARDS.

Nothing happened for the first ten minutes and she said:

'Do you mind if I try a little experiment? I will throw some of the cards into that neighboring nasturtium bed and see if any spirit writing appears on them after an interval."

The cards were scattered in he flower bed and Mrs. Stewart resumed her seat and closed her eyes. Mean while she asked th spectators to converse in natural tones on ordinary subjects, remote from the matter in hand.

After lapse of another five minutes Mrs. Stewart got up and placed the cards, with the flowers crushed between, on Mr. Lescarboura's head, but he, apparently, was not sufficiently magnetic. Passing a reporter with the exclamation, 'Oh you are not electrical," she laid the cards on Dr. Carrington's head but still the spirit writing failed to materialize.

"Folks," said Mrs. Stewart, "I must ask you to gather round me. Come, draw your chairs right up to the table where I am sitting. Others of you stand behind me."

MESSAGES FOUND.

When this had been done Mrs Stwart asked Dr. Carrington to lay his hand on the base of her skull and at the same time grasped the arm of Mrs. Wayburn's mother. Breathing laboriously, she cried, "They must come now; they must. You women will pray that they will come won't you?"

The group remained in this position for several minutes while Mrs. Stewart in hardly audible tones called for the writings. Suddenly she relaxed and cried:

"See! Do see! There they are now. Mr. Bird, look at the cards and see what you can read. The 'waves' passed through and through me. Oh, I do hope I have success at last."

The messages were then found. The last was from "Effie," who Mrs. Stewart described as her "Guardian Angel." Effie in her last message —she sent two—said there would be no more connections for the day.

Another seance will be held tomorrow, the Scientific American announced today.

Gilda Gray's Lesson No. 6 Reduces the Waistline, She Says

LESSON NO. 6.

The Boston American publishes today the last of a series by Hilda Gray, Follies dancer, on beauty hints to Boston women. The little talks the beautiful dancer has given, illustrated with photographs of herself, have proved very popular. Women say they are practical. Here is lesson No. 6:

The last of these "sitting exercises" varies a little because you sit on the chair the wrong way. Place both hands on chair back, body erect, and lean back as far as possible, at the same time inhaling. Exhale, swinging body forward until shoulders touch the chair.

Position A: Lean torso forward as far as possible, grasping back of seat with both hands until chest almost touches knees. It may be hard in the beginning, but if you persevere, you'll find it a great waistline reducer.

R. I. School Teacher Denied Time Off to Be Married

Cranston, R. I., Oct. 17.—The application of Miss Doris Whittaker, a Cranston school teacher, for two days' leave of absence was refused by the School Committee when it was said the teacher planned to get married.

"Let the teachers get married Saturdays or holidays," said a member of the committee—a woman—and no one said nay.

LEG BROKEN, BOY STICKS TO SCHOOL

Attending school all day while unknowingly he was suffering from a fractured leg was the feat of thirteen year old Joseph Hicks of No. 26 Dennis street, Roxbury. Joseph is at the City Hospital.

While roller skating on Winthrop street, Roxbury, Joseph fell to the street. Disregarding a sharp pain in his right leg Joseph entered school and attended both morning and afternoon sessions. When leaving however he found himself unable to walk and was taken to the hospital, where physicians reported he had fractured a bone in the leg.

DOG SAVES FAMILY FROM DEATH IN FIRE

Attleboro, Oct. 17.—According to reports brought from Barrowsville, a village on the outskits of Norton, the scratching and barking of a St. Bernard dog saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lachapelle and their nineyear-old son.

The dog managed to get in Lachapelle's bedroom, tugged at his clothes, aroused him and the others just in time to make it possible for them to escape with their lives. The village is miles from the nearest fire apparatus, and the house was destroyed

GERMAN ENVOY RECEIVED BY POINCARE

Paris, Oct. 17.—Herr von Hoesch, the German charge d'affaire, arrived at the foreign office shortly before noon today for his conference with Premier Poincare, believed an important step in regard to the reparation problem.

The German official arrived while a French guard of honor was drawn up waiting to salute President Masaryk of Czech-Slovakia. Herr von Hoesch had to pass between the ranks of the guard.

MAY NAME SQUARE FOR HERO SCOTTY

Discussion at the special Brookline Town Meeting over the renaming of two squares, one after a soldier and the other after a prominent civilian, resulted in the referring of one petition to a committee and the shelving of the other. Appropriations of $27,580 were made.

Citizens had petitioned for the renaming of the intersection of St. Paul street and Aspinwall avenue in memory of the late town treasurer, George H. Worthy, and the square at Babcock and Freeman streets in tribute to the late Private Albert E. Scott, Brookline newsboy, killed in action at Chateau Thierry.

GIRLS FIND EASY WAY TO WAVE HAIR

Use New Liquid Which Gives Straight Hair a Beautiful 7-Day Curl

Many Boston girls now know that to have beautiful wavy hair is one of the easiest things in the world. All they need do is apply to their hair a few drops of a wonderful new liquid—a liquid which makes even the stubbornest hair fall in soft, silky curls and charmingly natural waves.

But of all—but one application of this new liquid will give the hair a beautiful permanent wave. It stays keeping it wavy and curly for from 7 to 14 days—or longer. Thus when a girl uses this new liquid she can forget all about her hair for more than a week. No need to bother curling it every night or every other night.

This new liquid is called Domino Curlette, and those who have used it say that it is simply wonderful. Use the good old-fashioned kid curlers, but before doing so, just moisten the hair with a few drops of Domino Curlette. Not only can, but your friends will be amazed at the wonderful improvement in your appearance.

Get Domino Curlette today for just a small price. Money back if you say so. Get it at your favorite store today. If they haven't it in stock, send $1.00 plus ten cents (10c) postage to Domino House, 249 South 9th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

FLOOD LOSS IN OKLAHOMA $2,500,000

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 17 (AP).—Oklahoma is emerging from its most disastrous flood as the North Canadian river recedes to its ordinary narrow banks leaving a thousand persons homeless, property damage estimated at $2,500,000, railroad and highway service paralyzed, and public utility services demoralized.

Oklahoma City bore the brunt of the debacle, but virtually the entire northwest, northwest and central parts of the State suffered.

ETHER DAY IS CELEBRATED BY TABLEAUX

Ether Day, the seventy-seventh anniversary of the first demonstration of ether as a general anaesthetic in surgery and the golden anniversary of the founding of the training school for nurses at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was celebrated at the hospital by historical tableaux and a gift of $10,000 to the endowment of the training school.

Linda Richards, the first nurse to graduate from the school, attended the celebration, which was the fiftieth anniversary of her graduation. In the afternoon Dr. Richard C. Cabot delivered an address at a meeting in the Museum Building, with Dr. Henry R. Walcott presiding.

TABLEAU ON LAWN.

The historical tableau, "The Bearers of the Lamp," was presented by Miss Ruth Pond, Vassar, 1920, on the lawn in front of the Bulfinch Building. The tableau, "The Rock of Ether Vanquishes Pain," representing the first public demonstration of the use of ether on October 16, 1846, given at the hospital by Dr. William T. Morton, assisted by the hospital staff, was of particular interest.

In the tableau Dr. Edward Otheiner enacted the role of the patient and Dr. E. Haig that of Dr. Morton. The original medical staff was impersonated by Drs. Franklin Baleh, Jr., Paul Spangler, James Martin, Theodore Hauser, Charles Anderson, Thomas Barker and Edward Benedict, all in the costume of the period. Dr. Henry Bixby also wore the costume of the '40s.

50 YEARS OF UNIFORMS.

Nurses who have graduated from the training school wore uniforms demonstrating those used throughout the fifty years of the school. Miss Myra Whitney wore the cumbersome uniform of 1873; Miss Caroline Sutherland, '75; Miss Emma Everett, '79; Mrs. Charles Briggs, '99; Miss Cecile Robbins, '99; Miss Ruth E. Averill, '09; Miss Frances Crocker the uniform of the student nurse in 1919 and Miss Ellen Daly the uniform of the 1923 graduate.

Another tableau represented the departure of the Massachusetts General Hospital war group, U. S. Army Base Hospital No. 6, on the eve of the departure for France. The Red Cross painting, "For Humanity," by Arthur M. Heard of Brookline, was also enacted.

Miss Laura A. Wilson of the class of '96, on behalf of the Alumnae Association, presented $10,000 as the nurses' gift to the endowment fund of the training school.

A HALF CENTURY OF NURSES' UNIFORMS

COOLIDGE PUTS DRY LAW UP TO STATES

Washington, Oct. 17. — President Coolidge let it be known today that he had no idea of personally taking charge of dry law enforcement and that the various States will be called upon to bear their share of the burden.

Mr. Coolidge called into conference Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Assistant Secretary Moss and Collector of Revenue Blair. These three are responsible for the functions of the prohibition unit. They discussed for nearly an hour the program which President Coolidge will submit to State Governors in session here.

"The States will be called upon to look after the hip pocket cases. The Federal government will check leaks of alcohol and withdrawals and stop smuggling.

CHIEF BAILS MAN HE HAD ARRESTED

Fitchburg, Oct. 17.—Orin Stafford, aged 47, of Ashburnham, was arrested by Chief of Police D. A. Peeler on the charge of attacking Mrs. Josephine St. John, a 25-year-old married woman living in that town. It is alleged Stafford entered the young woman's room on the night of September 23. She screamed, and he fled. He had been a boarder at the St. John house. A very unusual incident connected with the case was that after bringing his man into the station, Chief Peeler in a pulled him out.

FRANCE HIT BY NEW DEADLY DISEASE

Paris, Oct. 17.—A new disease that has completely baffled physicians has appeared in the region of Lille, says a dispatch to L'Oeuvre. The Pasteur Institute has identified the germ as the amoeben of dysentery. It is supposed to have been imported with the Chinese laborers employed in the devastated regions, as the disease is known only in the tropics. It is caused by a microscopic, but tough parasite in the intestines, discourage the germs, for the death Physicians hope colder weather will rate from the disease is 25 per cent.

DUSE BEGINS SELF-IMPOSED EXILE IN HOTEL

SHUNS HER ITALIAN ADMIRERS

Refuses to Meet Delegation of Compatriots Assembled to Welcome Her

New York, Oct. 17.—Eleanora Duse, Italy's Bernhardt, began today a self-imposed exile in her luxurious suite at Hotel Majestic.

The remarkable little woman, greatest love and inspiration of the poet, Gabrielle D'Annunzio, is in America for her second visit in 20 years. She is to appear under the management of Morris Gest in a series of special performances, her premiere to be given October 29 at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Gabrielle D'Annunzio. Eleanora Duse.

A shy, vivid little creature This was the Duse New York saw yesterday for the first time in a score of years.

AGES GRACEFULLY.

The famous tragedienne has allowed herself to grow old gracefully. Her face is lined, her hair is gray, as befits her 64 years. She has steadfastly scorned cosmetics.

But her vivid personality cannot be dimmed by years, nor can the inroads of age detract one whit from the animation, the flash, the spirit which has been associated always with the name, Duse.

On the voyage across, the tragedienne appeared but twice in the lounge of the Olympic. She occupied the luxurious Louis XV. suite on the boat. When the vessel docked, she kept to her room for more than two hours.

SHUNS COUNTRYMEN.

She refused to meet fifty of her countrymen who had come to greet her. Then, under the guardianship of impresario Gest, she went to the Majestic. She will remain at the hotel until her premiere, with the exception of an occasional shopping expedition, and rehearsals.

Duse has entertained audiences since she was four years old. Today, after sixty years in public, she is as nervous as a kitten in the company of strangers. Her companion is an English woman, Miss Katherine Onslow. A Viennese secretary and an Italian maid complete her retinue.

HER LIFE ROMANCE.

It is the Duse of December who will make her farewell bow to American audiences. In the May of her life, the great tragedienne ran the gamut of emotions from the heights of an all-powerful love with Gabrielle D'Annunzio to the bitterness of disillusion by the act of the same man.

It is impossible that Duse should have experienced what she has and escape without the impress being left. Her internationally known experiences with the great poet are held by many as responsible for the great sadness which is really the cause of her reticence.

It was several years after her marriage with A. Checki, and the disagreement which followed Duse's proposal to train their son for the stage, that she met D'Annunzio.

For eight years the poet and the actress lived for each other alone. She made no appearance on the stage.

He plunged into a revel of creation which resulted in his five great tragedies, "The Dead City," "Gioconda," "Glory," "Dreams" and Francesco di Rimini." Then they separated.

Soon after D'Annunzio shocked the world by publication of his intimate and poetic narrative of the eight years of love of himself and Duse. They never spoke after the book's revelations. In the Spring of 1923 at Turin, however, D'Annunzio sat in a box and at the final curtain sent Duse a huge bouquet of gardenias.

$4 TON PROFIT LAID TO COAL SPECULATOR

Dr. George Otis Smith, a member of the United States Coal Commission, in a an interview with a Boston American reporter, charged a Roxbury coal dealer with making a profit of $4 a ton in coal speculation in which the dealer "never even saw the coal in question."

Increases in the price of anthracite above from 75 cents to a dollar a ton are extortion, he declared.

"I do not think there is any reason for the price of coal increasing any during the next two years, as present labor contracts run for that period. After that no one can tell; it may be cheaper and it may not.

"Looking ahead for a long time, several years, I think that there will come a time when New England will find its favorite anthracite so expensive that it will have to burn soft coal, whether they like it or not. Of course, this is my own opinion."

WOMAN SLAYER FAINTS IN COURT

Barnstable, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Emily L. Largergren of Osterville screamed and fainted when sentenced to serve an indefinite term in the Sherborn Reformatory for the killing of her four-year-old daughter.

Judge McLaughlin pronounced sentence. Her husband, her faithful supporter since the accusation was brought, broke down and wept.

The husband's worry was divided between the punishment meted out to his wife, and what would become of his seven children, deprived of a mother's care through the sentence.

The Largergren child was shot to death. Neighbors heard the report of the gun and rushed into the Largergren home to find the child on the floor, shot in the head, dead.

The mother, standing nearby, with her husband's shotgun in her hand, was attempting to discharge the gun into her own body. She pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter brought against her.

LADD DEMANDS PROBE OF WEEKS PLANT SALE

Washington, Oct. 17 (C.N.S.).—A demand for a congressional investigation of the sale of the Gorgas plant at Muscle Shoals by Secretary of War John W. Weeks was made today by Senator E. F. Ladd of North Dakota.

Senator Ladd said Secretary Weeks was apparently engaged in a hurried attempt to remove Muscle Shoals from possibility of control by Henry Ford before Congress could act.

"Secretary Weeks seems to have maneuvered himself into a defenseless position. I have no doubt that Congress will fully inquire into the validity of the option and of the deed that Secretary Weeks is supposed to have delivered to the Alabama Power Company.

"The action of Secretary Weeks in trying to dispose of the Gorgas plant appears to me to be a flagrant flouting of Congress. It looks like a feverish effort to get this property into the hands of the Alabama Power Company before Congress can have the opportunity to dispose of it."

Senator Ladd was the Republican member of the Senate Agricultural Committee that wrote the report favoring the acceptance of the offer of Henry Ford for the development of Muscle Shoals.

Second Funeral for Man Who "Died" 44 Years Ago

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 17.—The funeral of John S. Thompson, who forty-four years ago startled mourners about his coffin by coming to life, was held here.

It was the second time that friends and relatives had gathered to pay their last tribute to his memory, and modern science had made sure that he was dead before the funeral was announced. He was sixty-one years old.

The lateness of the minister who was to conduct the funeral service prevented Thompson being buried alive when he was seventeen years old. Relatives noticed one of the fingers of the supposed corpse twitch. A moment later Thompson sat up in the coffin and stared.

DISAGREES WITH DR. DRAKE, SAYS THE FAT BABY IS THE BEST

HAS BETTER CHANCE TO LIVE

Many Infant Deaths Due to Underfeeding, Dr. Emerson Declares

Boston babies are not too fat.

The fat baby is the strongest.

Infant deaths each year are caused by underfeeding.

The clean, fat, rosy baby has the best chance for health.

Weigh the baby every day and don't worry if it's a little overnourished.

Thin, undernourished babies in Boston are the great problem today.

This is the reply made by Dr. William R. P. Emerson to a statement by Dr. R. C. St Clair Drake that many Boston babies are too fat to be healthy.

Dr. Drake examined 700 children at the Boston Better Babies' Conference. He says kiddies in the Hub should be dieted to correct the condition of too much fat

Dr. Emerson, Boston expert on nutrition, differs. He says surplus fat is nature's means of protecting the child against sickness

HEALTH CHART NEEDED.

"Every mother should make a health chart to know how to care for her baby," Dr Emerson advised.

"There is a special program to follow each day to make baby strong and healthy.'

The doctor outlined the chart which provides for the child from the early morning hours until he is tucked carefully in bed at night.

PROGRAM FOR DAY

This is the program for the ideal day for children from five months to four years: The program for older children only slightly differs.

7 a.m.—Baby's bath. 7:30 a. m.—Breakfast. 8 a. m.—Play hour. 11:30 a. m.—Short rest. 12:30 p. m.—Noon day meal. 2 p. m.—Play hour again. 5 p. m.—Light supper. 6 p. m.—Bed time.

"Regularity in bathing, feeding and sleeping makes the difference between the healthy and the sick child," Dr. Emerson explained

BATH ESSENTIAL

"Each morning the baby should be carefully bathed," he continued "Baby's bath is the most important event of the day. The clean baby has the best chance for health

"The breakfast should always be prepared by the mother herself. She should give her personal attention to be sure that the bottles, pans etc are clean.

"Play time for the kiddies should also be under mothers care and supervision. In the morning when there's plenty of sun each baby should get out of doors.

"For the younger children who cannot take prescribed exercise the morning play hour is particularly necessary. It is the best chance the babies have to develop the use of their arms and legs.

"It is never too early for the mother to teach the child to respond to the life around it. Color, light and sound are three of the first elementary lessons that are important in baby's mental education."

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—is a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of your trouble and quietly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sickens, plays havoc with the gums. So do strong cathartic pills. Don't use calomel. Get Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy and heavy. They "clear" clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 15c and 30c

Much Interest in the Hale House Ball, Betty Alden Reports

By BETTY ALDEN.

IT was the clever brain of Tommy Prince Beal which selected the night of November 23 for the Hale House ball. Clever, because that's the eve of Harvard-Yale game, and there will be many out-of-town folk clamoring for tickets.

As usual, this important terpsichorean event will take place at the Copley-Plaza, and I presume that coming as it does on that particularly selected date, the attendance will be even larger than ever. Which is saying a good deal.

On Mrs. Beal's committee are Mesdames Howard A. Coonley and Robert A. Leeson, Miss Gertrude Taylor and Messrs. Howard Coonly, William G Perry and Alexander Winsor. Apropos of Tommy Beal—he is of the Harvard '04 class—his wife, the former May Morgan, is one of the prettiest matrons of the smart set. The alliance was another Boston-New York affair, the bride being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morgan of New York and Shelburne, Vt. It was at the Shelburne country home of the Morgan's that the marriage of the couple was solemnized two Summers ago. William De Ford Beal followed his brothers' example in capturing a New York bride and last November married Miss Beatrice Starr.

A HOST of notable folk were interested in the Ether Day pageant held yesterday at the Massachusetts General Hospital. It was one of the events held in celebration of the semi-centennial of the establishment there of a training school for nurses.

As Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer is still lingering on in Europe, Mrs. William G. Vaughan of Beacon street was in charge of the tea which followed the pageant and was given for the alumnae of the training school and their friends

Among Mrs. Vaughan's helpers was Miss Margaret Weld of Marlboro, others on her committee including Mesdames Henry F. Bigelow, Freeman Allen, Robert H. Gardiner, and John S. Lawrence

Miss Stanwood, who has done such splendid work at the Grenfell mission in Labrador, is a close friend of the former Miss Katherine Pollard, whose marriage to the Rev. William Stride of England took place last Fall. Both the former Miss Pollard and her husband were, like Miss Stanwood, workers at the Labrador mission.

SISTINE CHOIR GIVES FINE CONCERT

By ZOE FABER.

The Sistine Chapel Choir (the real Sistine Chapel Choir so we have it on the highest authority) gave a concert last night at Symphony Hall before an audience that packed the hall beyond its seating capacity. It is scarcely necessary to say that the enthusiasm was in direct proportion to the size of the audience.

Under the direction of Monsignor Antonio Rella, perpetual vice-director of the choir, the organization of fifty four men's and boys' voices gave unstinted pleasure with an entire evening of ecclesiastical music—no mean achievement these days

The evening was interesting musically chiefly by virtue of the splendid baritone and bass voices that formed the backbone of the volume of tone. The higher voices particularly those of the very young boys, had an occasional tendency to forsake sweetness for volume but, on the whole, the singing was excellent and merited the unlimited applause that was given so generously

Young Italian boys are not so different from young American boys, in spite of the fact that they can sing and sing well difficult polyphonic music. Having reached the coveted shore of America, their present consuming ambition is to meet and have it out with some of these far-famed American Indians—oh, yes, and to ride on a merry go-round!

AMERICAN ASKED TO FIND LOST GIRL

Frantic because of the disappearance of her fifteen-year old daughter, Evelyn, Mrs. Flora Perry of No. 231 West Newton street, Back Bay, has asked the Boston American to aid in the search. About a week ago, Mrs. Perry said, while she was at her work in a down town restaurant, Evelyn departed, declaring she must take a change of clothes," declared Mrs. Perry. When she left home she wore a blue serge dress, tan coat with red stripes and a black velvet trimmed hat. She has blue eyes and brown bobbed hair, her mother said

MRS. HEARST IS AMAZED BY RISE OF FREE STATE

By C. F. BERTELLI.
Universal Service.

Paris, Oct. 17.—"I have the feeling that I have witnessed the birth of a nation," said Mrs. William Randolph Hearst on her arrival here from Kilkenny Castle, Ireland, where she has been a guest for the last week.

"I am astonished and delighted with the progress Ireland has made since peace came. The railways are running normally, the towns are quiet, and business is better than it has been for a year.

"The very number of the people reflects an air of prosperity, peace and contentment greater than I had dared to expect. The little nation is going through a process now comparable to that which made the United States a great cohesive force in the world."

Mrs. Hearst was eloquent in her deep admiration for President Cosgrave, with whom she witnessed the dedication of a new bridge at Marlow, which had been destroyed during the Civil War.

"President Cosgrave is one of the most remarkable men I ever met," she declared. "He is simply adored by the Irish. Everywhere he is given credit as the man who has brought order out of chaos. I have not words with which to express my deep regard for the man who has given Ireland its rebirth."

DESERTED LYNN WAIF'S LEG IS BROKEN BY AUTO

Raymond Callahan, eight years old, of No. 341 Washington street, Lynn, seems to have been born to a life of misfortune. When he was but ten months old he was deserted by his parents and has been cared for by his grandmother since that time. The police have failed to locate the erring parents to this day.

Today the little boy is at the Lynn Hospital suffering from a fractured leg and other injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street near his home. The automobile was operated by James J. Murray of Schillawe avenue, Peabody, principal of the Peabody High School.

MRS. GRACE LIGHTFOOT AND CHILDREN

Mrs. Grace Lightfoot No 7 Rock avenue, Worcester, who recently obtained her liberty from the Westboro State Hospital testified that she was adjudged insane and was committed to that hospital when she told the examining physician: "My sisters are jealous of me because I am married and they are not."

That was headache talk at the testimony of Dr. Michael M Jordan of Worcester, one of the examining physicians, in a suit for $50,000 damages brought by Mrs. Lightfoot against Dr. Jordan, Dr. Leslie P. Leland, and her two spinster sisters, Eusebia F. Rolston and Edith Rolston, all of Worcester, for illegal incarceration and conspiracy. Mrs. Lightfoot charges the sisters sought to gain possession of her property.

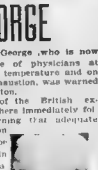
According to Mrs. Lightfoot the two sisters thought she was insane and had the two physicians examine her. She was committed to the hospital. She remained there a month before legal machinery could be set in motion and restored her to her family. John and Mary, who were with her when she appeared in the Probate District Court before Judge Lowe ster.

Dr Jordan, Worcester alienist, testified that when he examined Mrs Lightfoot she talked freely. "She said her sisters had defrauded her out of her property," the alienist said. He added that her sisters stated that the patient, Mr. Lightfoot, scolded constantly, was very suspicious, had no judgment about money matters and did not properly care for her children

BOSTON PLOT BARS LLOYD GEORGE

David Lloyd George, who is now under the care of physicians at Chicago with a temperature and on the verge of exhaustion, was warned not to visit Boston.

Cancellation of the British premier's visit here immediately followed the warning that adequate police protection could not be furnished him in Boston. The reason given for the necessity of protection was that the same feeling which caused an attempted mobbing of Lloyd George in New York was rampant among a faction of Irish sympathizers in Boston.



David Lloyd George

This feeling was due to the belief that Lloyd George was responsible for the "tricking" of the Irish into an acceptance of the Free State, and that he was to blame for the death of many Irish at the hands of British troops during the suppression.

THREATENED EX-PREMIER.

Mayor Curley was indignant over statements that Boston could not provide adequate police protection for Lloyd George. He said he had received threats against the British statesman and also letters of protest, but that he did not consider the threats as serious. Boston, however, is no longer on the Lloyd George itinerary.

Sir Alfred Cope, personal representative of the former Prime Minister, and now with him in Chicago said Mr. George was not confined to his bed, but had been ordered to take a rest. He expressed hope that Mr George "might be able to keep his engagement to speak in Chicago tonight."

Lloyd George was forced to cancel a dinner engagement he had made with Charles G. Dawes at the Chicago Club.

The message brought by David Lloyd George to Chicago was that because of the warlike preparations in Europe, the rise of dictatorships and increasing power of aristocracies Democracy throughout the world is in peril:

"Democracy is in danger," the former premier said. I can see democracy tumbling in one land after another. Democracy is in peril five years after the greatest triumph democracy ever had."

Lloyd George pleaded the United States Great Britain and, possibly France standing together, against this wave of autocracy which seems to be sweeping over the world.

Lloyd George said the reason of Germany's failure lay in the lack of vision, courage, leadership of the rulers, and this is not without its meaning now when democracy has been thrown over in one country after another in Europe.

SLAYERS IN MYSTERIES KNOWN

Enright, Over Radio, Bares New Facts in Elwell and "Dot" King Cases

New York, Oct. 17.—The slayers of Joseph B. Elwell and of Dorothy King Keenan, victims in two of New York's most notorious unsolved murder mysteries, are known to the police, Police Commissioner Enright disclosed in a radio lecture on "Police Problems."

"But," Enright hastened to explain, "we have been unable to get the one per cent. additional legal evidence to make arrests."

Elwell, widely known sportsman and bridge expert, was slain in his apartment in May, 1920, after he had been host at a roof garden party atop one of this city's most noted hotels.

Dorothy ("Dot") King, beautiful Broadway "butterfly," was slain in her apartment off Fifth avenue last March. Each of the cases is officially recorded at police headquarters as unsolved.

"In these unsolved cases our books are not closed until the last principal involved is dead," said Enright in his radio audience. "About the Elwell and 'Dot' King mysteries many of these cases are not mysteries to the police department. The murderers are known.

The commissioner then explained that [illegible] experts were "clear ly certain" they could put the handcuffs on the perpetrators of the two murders he named, but lacked sufficient legal evidence to justify arrests.

"The department never sleeps," he continued. "We hope some way to get the other one per cent of evidence. It is better to be sure a shot than to miss.

"I will let you know about some interesting news in our next talk. I guess I have been over whetting your appetites. Good night."

Enright's revelation be a curious coincidence, came within a few hours of announcement that Elwell's widow had become the bride of Captain P. Horatio Alvarado of Havana on a [illegible] houseboat in Florida.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

A Delightful Romance with an Unusual Heroine

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

A Charming Serial of Love and Adventure in the Picturesque Days of the Beginnings of the Astor and Vanderbilt Fortunes

Pat (Marion Davies) and Delavan's guests in the garden of his mansion

THE STORY SO FAR:

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland, when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, and her father arrived in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat.

"WHERE did Mr. Delavan go?" she asked. She wanted to change the subject as quickly as might be.

"To the bank," said Reilley, frowning. He knew as much about Larry's affairs as did Larry himself, indeed, in all probability. And he resented how extreme grave Larry's situation was. "I—I had business to attend to, once."

"It's out of me?"

"You! Devil a bit of it! Think you he's nothing but you to concern himself with, poor lad?"

"No, no—but I mean—if I hadn't come he'd not have had to go?"

"No good thinking of that now," said Reilley. "Right's right, and all he thought was to be fair to rightfully yours, and that's the end of it. But it's cruel hard on him, for all that."

"I know it," said Pat, soft'y enough. "I—I'm sorry, too, Reilley. It's glad I'd be to share with him."

Reilley turned to stare down at her.

"Eh, and you may have the makings of a decent man in you, yet," he said, surprised. "But he'd not be taking anything from you, even if he could—and you could not be giving it to him if you would. Not yet awhile."

"Can't I do as I please with my own money?"

"You cannot—and so you'll find the first time you go to old Astor for some of it to spend on foolish ness. "Is he that's the executor and has the spendin' of your money until you become of age."

"Then if I want money, I must go to him?"

"Aye, and with a good reason for wanting the same—else you'll not get it. He has the name of being a careful man with what's his—and of being just twice as careful still with all he holds in trust. Yet I'd like to have one dollar for every ten he's thrown away."

"How's that, if he's so careful?"

"The man's the land poor, if he's not careful. Land, land—it's all he thinks of, from one day's end to the next. It's how all of Manhattan Island is owned! Why, he talks of when the city will have grown to it, as if 'twere but a step to Harlem! Who ever heard the like?"

"And will he buy land for me, too?"

"If it pleases him, he will. He's a hard man to argue with."

Pat walked along in silence for a space.

Reilley, presently, thought, "why as Mr Delavan's worried! Why does he want the old to have those great tracts of land? Now, this minute?

"The saints preserve us!" Pat for Mr. Fulton's steamboat touch what business it is of years a past my know-ing!"

Another space of silence. Then: "Reilley—who is the pretty young lady who lives next door?"

Reilley roared.

Boss us—there's the first sensible thing you've said! Let's Mr Delavan's market! Here's You've a right to know by Mr. Larry'll be glad to know so much."

"No—no—you mustn't tell him! Reilley—I—does—is Mr. Delavan fond of her?"

Fond of her, is it? And why not?—hasn't he known her all her life But if you've been over you have—you've seen Miss Puyster's there with her black eyes to cast a spell upon

Mistress de Puyster?" Pat's eyes were drawn together in a frown. "Why, I'm little known her. Was on the ship with us," he said, and glad even, of your company, so long as you were with me. I'll warrer I said Reilley. "Is company? Pat laughed. She was too good for the likes of you and me, Reilly's."

"—and what's more? There's no

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

"YOUR life and Jim's touch so many points—you've so much in common that you must inevitably swing back again into closer communion Ruth Gregory hasn't our standard but she's a big woman and Jim's probably flattered by her interest."

"I've not swung away," I managed. "Nothing else matters so much as being with Jim. But he has so much charm, so much personality and magnetism and such a restless nature that this group of artists with their bohemian standards is tearing the very foundation of the simple home life that means everything to me. I wish Miss Gregory would leave Jim alone."

"Yes, I know," Betty answered gently. "I wonder—"

But what it was Betty wondered I wasn't to know, for a peal at the door bell interrupted us. And since Betty's visiting maid had gone for the day, there was nothing for her to do but answer the summons. While Betty was gone I walked around the room impatiently, wondering if Betty could help me find again the way to simple, moderate, old-fashioned family life—such as Jim and I had shared so beautifully in the days of our poverty.

When Betty returned, however, she was followed by a shrinking, modest little figure whom for the moment I hardly recognized. Then a oblivion burst out.

"Oh Mrs Harrison. Aren't you glad to see me?"

It was Irma Warren

"Of course I'm glad to see you, Irma," I cried, recovering myself quickly to meet the need expressed in Irma Warren's tone. The girl looked wistful to the point of being pathetic as she followed Betty Winston into the den where my hostess and I had been talking so earnestly of modern social conditions and what they mean to me. "I had no idea you'd return ed, Irma. But you're a fine surprise. I think I'm going to kiss you before I introduce you to Mrs. Winston."

"We've met, and we began to get acquainted on the way down my long hall," Betty said with her unfailing ease of manner

ARE AMERICAN WOMEN GETTING TOO FAT?

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.,

Former President of the American Medical Association.

ARE you a fat woman and are you getting fatter?

To put it plainly, do you often find yourself trying to get at the facts—possibly in your interest.

But, to relieve the inquiry of any personal bias, let me make it general and ask,

Is the average American woman getting fatter?

Suffered Breakdown After Husband's Death

Was in a Serious Condition Until She Began Taking Wincarnis

"During my husband's illness I had practically worn myself out through work and worry, and so when he passed away, I had almost reached a state of collapse. I would feel so exhausted that it was all I could do to get about, and yet when night came I could get no sleep. I was fearfully nervous—the least little thing would make me jump.

"I read one day about Wincarnis and decided to try it, and it certainly has done wonders for me. I began to improve wonderfully after the first few I had taken the first bottle my appetite had come back, I was much less nervous and was getting some sleep at night. I have taken only a few bottles and now I am entirely well, my stomach is good and I really feel like a new woman."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results

Thousands of housewives have found how to save dollars of the money usually spent for cough syrup by combining this well-known recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a pint. If you prefer, use clarified honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating to every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises phlegm, soothes and heals the irritated membranes, and gradually surely the annoying throat tickling and dreaded cough disappears entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

You could disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers You, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulates them to normal activity. One function of the kidneys is to filter from the blood, in 24 hours, fifty grains of acids and waste, so we can realize understand how important it is to keep the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can hardly drink too much; eat less meat and take a dessertspoonful of Jad Salts occasionally if your kidneys feel sore and you will know you are drinking plenty of water. You should also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

ZEV IS FAVORED TO WIN GREAT $100,000 RACE ON SATURDAY

PAPYRUS IS DISTANCE HORSE

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY

New York, Oct. 17.—Although Zev is favored to win, Papyrus has many backers.

This is the situation now on the world's three-year-old $100,000 championship thoroughbred race at Belmont Park on Saturday.

As the time draws near, it is very plain that there is tremendous interest in the event. The public doesn't seem to know how to figure it. That adds to the interest.

Earl Sande.

Neither Zev nor Papyrus as far has got loose in the manner expected by lovers of the thoroughbred who have gone to Belmont Park to see them run and gallop.

All that seems to be known is that both the American champion and the English Derby winner look fit.

Two hundred horsemen and out and-out racegoers appeared at Belmont Park, to see Papyrus work. They expected that Basil Jarvis, his trainer, would order Ted Banham, the stable boy, to let Papyrus go at a high clip.

BUT THE DERBY WINNER STEPPED MILE AND QUARTER.

Instead of the mile and a half, the distance of the international event Saturday, Papyrus stepped a mile and a quarter in 2:02 and finished out an extra furlong under a pull in 2:25 4-5. He was going at that time by more than a length.

Obviously, there was nothing startling in this, but it will stand critical analysis very well. The gentleman who took note of the fact he turned the last half mile a fifth of a second under fifty seconds. Certainly he is a distance horse and can carry good speed over the whole route.

WITH BANHAM UP HE CARRIED 119 OR 120 POUNDS

He had 119 or 120 pounds on with Banham up.

The fractional time of his work follows:

Furlong, 11 1-5, quarter, 25 3-5; half-mile, 54 flat; three-quarters, 1:20 3-5; mile, 1:45 2-5, mile and a quarter, 2:00 2-5; mile and three furlongs, 2:25 4-5.

Papyrus started even with Rar Gold, his stable pal, which heretofore has had a hundred yards or more handicap. Rar Gold stayed with Papyrus for about a mile, but then the son of Tracery went away. He was in hand from the beginning, but he let down a trifle from three-quarters to a mile and a half, and then took up again. His gait was mag-

Coach Fisher Drives The Harvard Squad

Harvard's first team engaged in one of the stiffest scrimmage sessions of the season with the two subs in preparation for the Holy Cross game Saturday. Coach Fisher paid particular attention to the work of the guards and tackles.

Captain Riopel

Team A lined up as follows: Hill and Gordon, ends; Dunker and Kastman, tackles; Hubbard and Grew, guards; Greenough, centre; Lee, quarterback; Howe and Cheek, halfbacks; and Hammond, fullback.

Team B comprised: Coombs and Crowley, ends; Tanopoli and Evans, tackles; Daniell and Bradford, guards; herman, centre; Spalding, quarterback; Coburn and Cordingley, halfbacks; and Jenkins, fullback.

Fore more than an hour the two teams battled back and forth. Coach Fisher drove his men to the limit. The centre of the line already shows an increase in strength with Grew and Hubbard back in the regular lineup.

Lee called the signals for the first team, and may start against Holy Cross. McGlone may get into the game for a short period, but does not appear to be in the best of shape yet.

Cheek and Hammond showed great power in hitting the line. Many of the second team plays were directed toward the guards and tackles, as Coach Fisher realizes that it will need a pretty stiff line to hold the Holy Cross backs.

Bill Glennon

Jimmy Knox rehearsed the scrubs in Holy Cross plays, and the Purple plays will be worked against the regular team today and tomorrow.

Harvard has had scouts at Worcester since the start of the season, and the Crimson regulars will be drilled to stop the Holy Cross attack.

Coach Cleo O'Donnell is not half so confident of victory as are the Purple followers. The Harvard game is not Holy Cross' big objective, although the Purple would be pleased to win. Cleo therefore cannot put a finished team into play, but must build gradually for the game with Boston College at the end of the season, which is the real Purple goal of the season.

Lonergan

Butler, the Purple end, is bothered a bit with his knee, but is expected to be in shape for Saturday.

Glennon is training to get speed and strength for his plunges against the Crimson line, and for round the end plays which are sure to be tried with a wingman such as Mahaney to clear the way.

Crowley will add to the Holy Cross strength by his punting. He has got off long, high punts in practice and gives Butler and Mahaney plenty of time to get down and gather in the receiver of the pigskin.

ROBINSON IS WONDER OF THE BOXING GAME

By Ringside.

George Robinson, veteran Cambridge middleweight who makes his big effort against Johnny Wilson in a ten-round bout at the Buffalo A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on Friday night, is one of the marvels of the ring. This rugged fighter has been in the limelight for the past fifteen years. During this time he has clashed with most of the world's leading middleweights and light-heavyweights and has experienced remarkable success.

Walter Lee

Robinson probably knows more about the fine points of the fistic game than any man showing under the ring lights today. He seldom makes a false move while boxing, while very often he surprises his opponent by doing the unexpected.

[illegible] will have Andy Martin as an opponent.

ROBINSON DROPPED WILSON TO CANVAS 3 TIMES.

In the very first round, Robinson dropped Wilson to the canvas. The former champion was fortunate in lasting out the session. Robinson scored two more knockdowns before the mill ended. Wilson later won over Robinson at the Arena after being knocked part way through the ropes in the opening chapter.

Robinson has been training for this bout for a month and is in remarkable condition. He says he will score with a knockout.

The Cambridge man will have to show better than ever if he wins. This writer considers Wilson the greatest middleweight in the world. We believe he would be able to win over Harry Greb in a return match in their recent engagement in New York. Greb barely won the decision despite the fact Wilson had been ill for almost two years.

Johnny is out to regain his lost title. He intends to accomplish the end by battling all comers.

Boston and New England fans who saw Greb in action again will not seem to think that Wilson could defeat either of those men.

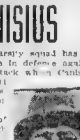
LARSEN AND COTTLER IN SEMI-FINAL

Wolf Larsen, heavy puncher, will oppose Tom Cottler of [illegible] in the semi-final of eight rounds.

Frank Pitcher of New York will clash with Walter Lee of Denver, while Terry Parker, one of the most promising of our preliminary boys,

EAGLE DEFENCE PLANNED FOR CONISIUS

The Eagle varsity squad has received a course in defence against the style of attack which Conisius displayed in its Saturday against Washington University.



Coach Cavanaugh

The center of the line, through which most of the Eagle runs were made by Emil Ham, has been somewhat changed. Joe Beaver has been tried for two days at guard along with McManus. This combination improved favorably.

Conisius is not considered lightly. The Buffalo college has not been scored upon. Rochester Optical was swamped 60-0 and Washington conquered 14-0.

The Eagle knows Coach Luke Urban's power now as it knew it in 1920.

COWBOY SURE TO WIN FAME ON MAT

Stanley Stasiak, the Polish Boy, seems to be in top form. Word now comes that a new Italian wrestler better than either Gardini or Caliz will soon invade Boston.

Stasiak

If [illegible] Kotsarenko, Greek [illegible] holder, will soon return. [illegible] Three giant Greek grapplers, the best that Europe can produce, have arrived in New York City and will soon be seen in action.

But of more interest than any of these is the climb of Buck Stone, the Millionaire Cowboy, to the top ranks of the present day champions.

His showing against Karl Vogel last week was one for any youngster to feel proud of. On Thursday night he will be the main attraction, meeting Zulu Revumpaa.

ITALIAN A. A. STAGES SHOW ON THURSDAY

The Italian A. A. of Lynn will stage an amateur boxing show tomorrow at Casino Hall.

Matty Cassia, Ted Blodgett, Sergeant Price, Red Nickerson, Bobby White, Eddie Barry, Danny Walky, Freddy Austin, Jimmy Ross, Eddie Zon, Jimmy Picardi and Johnny Moore have entered.

CINCINNATI PLANS A HUGGINS BANQUET

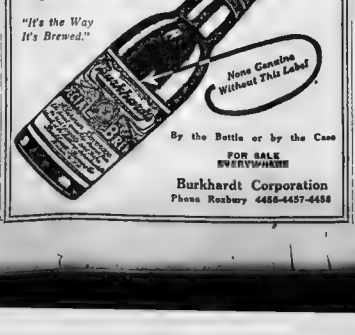
Cincinnati, Oct. 17.—A dinner in honor of Miller Huggins, a native Cincinnatian and a graduate of the local amateur baseball fields, now manager of the Yankees, will be given by the fans of Greater Cincinnati in November.

This was determined on by businessmen at a conference at the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

TUFTS SECOND TEAM AT LOWELL TODAY

Coach Jimmy Lefkas and twenty-five members of the Tufts second team will oppose the Lowell Textile seconds at Lowell today.

The players who will face the Lowell outfit are: McInnes and Littlefield, ends; Hanney and Clifford, tackles; Waldon and Haff, guards; Briggs, centre; Watson, Gamage, Cunningham and Chernesky, backs.



THEATRICAL STAR GIVES GOLF CUPS

Edie Dowling, leading man of the "Silly, Irene and Mary" company, has donated two loving cups to the Scarboro Golf Club for competition among its members at Franklin Park.

The tournament will continue until October 24. Entrants are allowed to play an eighteen-hole medal round on any day most suitable to them—but only one round. They must declare their intention of playing on a certain day and secure a card from the starter at the first tee.

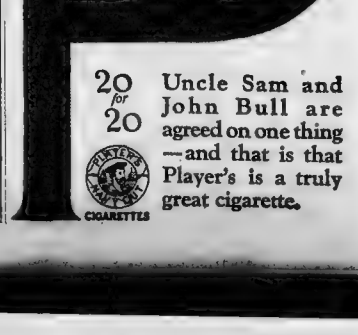
One cup will be played for from scratch and the other from handicap.

HOLY CROSS QUOTA WILL NUMBER 4,800

Worcester, Oct. 17.—Worcester will be represented in the Harvard Stadium Saturday at the Harvard Holy Cross football game by the greatest crowd that ever went from this city to a Harvard athletic event.

The first batch of 3,000 tickets sent here was disposed of last week, a second batch of 1,000 was sold yesterday, and a third call brought back word from Harvard that only 500 more tickets were available for Worcester.

The distributing agency has enough orders booked already to take twice the 800.



Uncle Sam and John Bull are agreed on one thing—and that is that Player's is a truly great cigarette.

HOLY CROSS EXPECTS TO WIN
From Worcester comes word that Holy Cross expects to win over Harvard in their football battle at the Stadium on Saturday. The Purple eleven has shown plenty of power this Fall, while Harvard has not been going very well.

TOMMY NEE IS IMPROVING
Fred Weiderhelt writes from Summit, N. J., that Tommy Nee, South Boston bantamweight, has improved greatly since he placed himself under the training of Jack Britton. The latter should be able to teach Nee the fine points of the game

GARDNER WALLOPS WAY TO VICTORY OVER ABE FRIEDMAN

R. I. BOY HAS HARD BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY.

Spencer Gardner, heavyweight Newport, R. I., bantamweight, walloped his way out front in his boxing division when he conquered Abe Friedman, New England, after ten spirited rounds of milling at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building.

Pal Reed

It was a hard, close fight. Gardner's superior socking power gave him the margin

Gardner may have been inspired by the fact that Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, was at the ringside. Walker was accompanied by Jack Bulger, his property manager. Mickey was on hand to see Pal Reed, his stable mate, win over Joe Kagan of Dorchester, in one of the other ten round bouts.

Willie Gradwell of Somerville continued his winning drive when he upset Charley Parker, South End kayo king, in the opening ten-round frolic.

Steve Adams of Chicago also added another victory to his list when he disposed of Kid Lambert of Quincy who batted for Young Fangrass of Quincy. This was an eight-round affair

GARDNER AND FRIEDMAN MET IN BANNER CONTEST

The bout between Gardner and Friedman was the banner contest of the evening

Friedman was a favorite at the barrier. Gardner whirled out front at the bell and piled up a big load during the first five rounds.

The New England champion came back strong during the last five sessions, making Gardner miss a great deal. Abe, however, was not able to overcome Gardner's early lead.

Pal Reed made a sparkling showing in his mill with Kagan. Reed forced the issue for the first eight frames and it appeared as though he would win by the proverbial mile.

Kagan then uncorked a brilliant rally. He counted with left hooks and right hand smashes on numerous occasions during the last two rounds and shook Reed up

The bout ended amidst a volley of blows. Reed's fine work up through the eighth round naturally gave him the decision

CHARLEY PARKER GAVE GRADWELL PLENTY OF FIGHT

Charley Parker, although defeated, gave Gradwell plenty of opposition. The South End kayo king carried the first three rounds.

Gradwell's left hooks and ability to get out of the way of Parker's right hand smashes then turned the tide of the conflict.

Gradwell had a comfortable margin at the end of the final session.

Steve Adams didn't have much trouble winning over Kid Lambert. Fangrass was overweight and so Lambert was substituted. This writer then handed out a ringside tip that Adams, our original selection, would win easily

Reed and Gradwell also came through with wins, while Friedman, our other selection, was tossed for a loss.

But as Babe Ruth would be satisfied with three out of four for one performance, we should also.

HULTGREN BOOMS ATHLETICS AT Y

W. C. Hultgren, who has taken over charge of the track team at the Huntington avenue branch of the Y. M. C. A., has called a meeting of the track men. FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Portland, Ore., Oct. 17.—(Delayed)—This is being written on a train speeding westward. The best tonic for Wall Street bears and for other pessimists who have had their noses pressed too long at their own little cases and a trip through the country, to where the real wealth is being created, to watch our fifteen billions of farm products in the making, to see how all classes are sharing in the prosperity of industrial products and mining created and harvested in response to increased demand, to see the ever-growing purchasing power of the people, to hear good times discussed on every hand, to see factories running full time and full with every wheel and turn of the stock ticker, but where life is more stable and sturdy, is more exhilarating more wholesome

Where does the West begin?
Out where the sun is stronger
Out where the air is stronger
Out where the sky is higher
Out where the West begins.
Out where the skies are bluer
And the hearts are truer
Out where the sun is stronger
Out where the West begins.

But where does the West begin?
Out where the hearts beat high
Out where there's more living than dying
And a man makes friends without trying—
That's where the West begins.
(With apologies to Arthur Chapman)

Here's a tip for the very busy gentlemen of our big cities who complain that they are so constantly interrupted by phone and people, that they can't do a good day's work: Jump on the Twentieth Century or the Broadway Limited, or some other through train, lock yourself into a compartment, and concentrate to your heart's content, unhampered by a soul. Armed with the newest brand of Remington portable, I've been able to do two days' work every journey.

I ran across Thomas W. Lamont, the J. P. Morgan Co. partner, who is in danger of wrecking himself by overwork. He is not pessimistic. Things may look pretty bad in Europe, yet "I'm not at all discouraged about them," he remarked. He regards things at home as being "in very good shape." He isn't sorry we are not having a boom.

• • •

Managing Director Eugene Meyer of the War Finance Corporation, who is in the Middle West trying to help the wheat growers to market their product more orderly and advantageously, is also optimistic. He is telling the farmers that they must help themselves—or, at least that they must co-operate effectively with those who are willing to help them. He believes wheat is going higher. That is the sentiment.

Talking about wheat, here's a neat view President Dana B. Morgan of the National City Bank, of Chicago, gave me. "The high price of corn is not a result of legislation, nor is the low price of wheat due to lack of legislation."

• • •

This will interest owners of railroad shares and perhaps some of our politicians. I've found so far more concern as to whether the railroads will be able to move corn modified and fruits, etc., promptly, than as to whether rates will be lowered

Western railroad men are not exuberantly optimistic over prospect or prospective railroad profits.

BAN ON PARKING SUGGESTED AS TRAFFIC CURE

TRAFFIC SUGGESTION NO. 18

The American prints today another in a series of suggestions offered to relieve the serious traffic problem in Boston. The reader suggests a ban on parking in general and urges using business streets for business only.

"How is this for a plan to relieve street congestion?" writes the correspondent. "No pleasure cars beyond Charles or Arlington streets on one side of the city, or Scollay square on the other.

"If car owners can't walk from those places they are unfit either to shop or conduct business. Bust open streets for business only. Do they allow trucks in parks?

"Tremont and Washington streets should be one way streets, one north the other south, with side streets for both directions instead of one-way.

"No parking on streets nor making free garages of them as they have of the new Eliot street. The wider the street the more the congestion. They would fill Boston Common and the Public Garden if allowed and then ask for Arlington and Park Street benches to be pulled down to make space.

"There should be strict adherence to speed laws. Streets should not be alleys for trucks as at present. The jaywalkers are to take care of themselves. They always do."

What do you say? Write us.

WOMEN OF LEGION FIGHT DRUGS

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (A.P.)—Pressing problems of organization policy, athletic contests, sight-seeing tours and an elaborate aerial program vied for the attention today of the delegates to the fifth annual convention of the American Legion.

Among the speakers on today's program were Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, which opened its convention here yesterday; Robert R. Boulay of the American Red Cross, and William J. McGinley, supreme secretary of the Knights of Columbus.

The women of the Legion auxiliary have pledged themselves to a campaign to eradicate traffic in drugs in the United States.

A committee report, prepared by Mrs. J. E. Baird, national chairman of the Americanization Committee, stated that "At the present rate of increase of the drug evil in the United States, figures indicate that within 25 years we would have a nation of drug addicts.

Keep Trustees Out of It

Combination of Graduates, Undergraduates and Teachers Ought to Control Instruction in Private Colleges

There have been many reactions against the scandal at Amherst College, where a reactionary board of trustees removed President Meikeljohn because he encouraged the students to think for themselves and did not try to force down their throats dogmatically the trustees' conception of economics, sociology, politics and religion.

A novel reaction is the experiment which the old conservative college of St. Stephen has undertaken. There it has been determined that no teacher can be removed except by the vote of the entire body of teachers, and that the trustees shall be confined to promoting and controlling the business interests of the college. Teaching shall be done by the teachers, and the financing shall be done by the trustees.

This plan is not without its faults, but no liberal man or woman can hesitate to choose between it and the plan by which Big Business, controlling the board of trustees, can control the education of our youth.

The danger in the St. Stephen plan, of course, is the danger that is inherent in all self-perpetuating bodies—it is not liable to criticize itself. The teachers are not liable to be disagreeable to one another. Self-discipline is always difficult. It is also liable to have the evil of in-breeding. Altogether, its weakness might develop a reaction not of the same character as that developed where trustees control, but which might at least be harmful.

The students themselves ought to have a voice in the removal of a teacher. You cannot fool a body of college students as to the value of the instruction they are receiving. There may be some danger that a teacher giving a "snap" course would be leniently judged by the lazy students, who flock to the course because it is known to be easy. But generally these "snap" courses are given by the most distinguished professors. Geology IV, at Harvard for years was known as a "snap" course, and boys took it because it was easy. Yet it was given by Professor Shaler, one of the world's greatest geologists and teachers, and without doubt the boys who wanted to do so obtained a great deal of value out of the course.

Any disposition on the part of the undergraduates to be moved by the personality of the teacher rather than by the benefits of his instruction might be corrected by giving the graduates for a few years back the franchise. If their contact with the teacher has been sufficiently fresh, their acquaintance would be equal to that of the undergraduates, with a greater maturity of judgment and without the cross-interests which might beset the undergraduates.

Some combination of graduates and undergraduates and teachers ought to control the instruction in our private colleges, and the trustees ought to be kept out of it entirely.

Tiny Dinosaur Eggs

And Ten Million Years Old

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Most interesting is the discovery of seventy dinosaur heads and a nest filled with twenty or more dinosaur eggs in Central Asia.

Some serpents lay eggs, some bring their young into the world alive. Scientists were in doubt about the dinosaurs. This discovery settles the question.

You couldn't imagine a dinosaur seventy feet long sitting on an egg. Undoubtedly the heat of the sun took care of the hatching.

You are amazed that such gigantic creatures should lay eggs only six inches long. It is as though a hen's egg were as small as a grain of bird shot. But a new born grizzly bear is not much bigger than a rabbit.

Most interesting of all is the fact that those eggs, fossilised, are ten million years old. That can be demonstrated to anybody with the intelligence of an ordinary ten-year-old child.

Back of those eggs are tens of millions of years of evolution, and back of that hundreds of millions of years in the life of this planet.

It is encouraging to know that we still have hundreds of millions of years to go. Much can be accomplished in that time.

Bankers, Clergymen Agree

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Bankers demand the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, in their solemn convention. They fear that all crimes and other matters will be handled through constitutional amendments instead of being left to the Legislatures. They want the Constitution treated more respectfully, and also kept in its place.

The Reverend Francis de Young of St. Raphael's German Catholic Church in Chicago declares the Volstead law must be changed, because utter disregard for that law leads to disrespect for all laws. It will take a great deal of preaching by clergymen and arguing by bankers to change that Eighteenth Amendment, however.

Thirty-six States were found to put prohibition in the Constitution. To take it out would require thirty-six States also. How could you get so many States in line? You could not do it.

The Volstead law stands for prohibition itself, in prohibition minds. Those minds have great political influence. They represent many churches, many women.

Improving Railroads

We are very glad to note President Pearson's statement that the New Haven service will be greatly improved.

He says that it is generally recognized by the national railroad executives that railroad service must be improved. That, too, is good news.

But railroad service will never be very much improved while railroads are run by the stocktickers in the offices of our speculative bankers.

BIBLE BEST SELLER IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Bible is still the "best seller" in Great Britain.

Statistics made public by the British and Foreign Bible Society show that during 1923 1,101,574 copies of the Bible were sold in England and Wales. This is 317,000 more than were sold in 1921.

In the first three years after the war sales of the Bible in England and Wales fell below the 1,000,000 mark each year.

Poor Telephone Service

Editor Boston American:

Because of extremely poor telephone service in my Allston home (Brookline Exchange), I wrote officials of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company six months ago requesting a change. In reply I was told I would probably get the hange in two months. Three weeks ago I wrote again saying I thought it was time for REAL action instead of Lot-air. I instructed the telephone officials to remove my phone to Allston on November 1, if the requested change had not been made on that date. In reply I was informed the change would be made in two weeks. I have so little faith in the promises of the telephone company officials that I do not expect them to remedy matters. Isn't it time another telephone company entered the local field? Good service has generally resulted where there was not a monopoly. How much longer has the New England public got to stand for such rotten service?

Gives Three Dollars

Editor Helping Hand:

Please give the enclosed to the widow of father killed in the war, M. P. H. F. McY.

Many thanks. Your contribution of three dollars is being forwarded to M. P., and you have been sent her address.

Black Kitten To Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I have two very nice jet black kittens to give away. Would like them to get a good home.

MRS. M. S. G.

Thank you. They will be held for replies.

Overcoat and Suits

Editor Helping Hand:

I have an overcoat size 38 or 40, two suit coats, men's, same size, about a dozen soft collars, practically new, size 15½, and 15½. I would gladly send to any of your needy if you would send me addresses. Also a number of magazines that might help to cheer a shut-in. MRS. A. T. H.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. D. V. B. who will be grateful for the clothing, and of Mrs. K. S., who will like the magazines.

Clothes for Boys

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few things I would like to give to help your good work along. They include a boy's overcoat, size fourteen, a pair of shoes, size 7½, a few coats and rompers for a baby two or three years old, and two boy's Winter hats

MRS. G. H. G.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of a mother who will be very grateful for these things.

Generous Offers

Editor Helping Hand:

If some poor mother with babies from one to two years old will call at my house any morning before 1 p. m., I will be only too happy to give her a baby's crib, baby's white coat, a tan coat, size two, and a few other baby things. I also have an orchid colored tailored suit size 36 for a small woman, a pair of white pumps, size 3½D in good condition, and also two pairs of curtains and a few other things. I will pay the carfare.

MRS. R. J. B.

Many thanks. You have been sent the address of Mrs. E. C., who has made an appeal for some destitute friends of hers, and she has been asked to call as you request.

Hardly Enough to Eat

Editor Helping Hand:

We are very poor, as my husband is not earning much and everything is so high, rent especially, that when everything is paid, there is hardly enough left to get enough to eat even though I get the cheapest I can buy. I have four children, three little boys and one girl. Two boys are going to school and need coats badly, size seven and five years. Their little nighties are all gone. My husband is very badly off for a suit and overcoat. He takes size 40. I am anxious to get a job evenings. I would do cleaning or mind children, work in a restaurant, or anything where I could earn something to help us out

M. B. S.

Wants Clothes to Make Over

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if any one of your kind readers could help me get a few old clothes to make over for Winter. I am having very hard luck just now. My husband is a World War veteran, but has had to give up his work on account of ill health. He has been working in the same place for ten years, with two years out that he was fighting in France. He isn't able to do any indoor work any longer. My work only brings in enough to keep the rent up and buy food. We live in a three-room Summer shack. I can sew and make over most anything. I take size 44 clothes and 5½ shoes, and my husband takes size 14 shirts and 38 suits. Anything will be a great help and when I get on my feet I can help someone in need, myself.

MRS. M. E. G.

Music to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

We have some classical violin music with piano accompaniment for some advanced violinist who could call for it (Providence, R. I.). We also have music for violin, cello and piano which is mostly popular music which is not quite up to date enough for our work.

B. R. P.

Thank you. Your offers will be held for replies.

Overcoat for Man

Editor Helping Hand:

I have an overcoat that I would like to give to some poor man that hasn't one. It is about size 40 and only slightly worn. In last night's paper there were many appeals from men for overcoats, and I am leaving it to you to pick out the one to whom I shall send it.

MRS. A. M. H.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. M. C. C., who asked for an overcoat for her husband.

Girl's Dresses

Editor Helping Hand:

I have five dresses and two petticoats and two or three shoes for a little girl two or three years old. Glad you are doing so well and am very glad to help when I can.

MRS. J. B.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. M. L., who has two little girls whom these things might fit.

Home for Mother and Child

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a pair of shoes, size 3, for a small woman. Also a suit coat, size 40, blue serge. Also would like to correspond with someone that would like to keep house for me for the Winter, as I want to go to work. I can't pay much, but would share with some unfortunate woman that had one child and no home. Poor little Winnifred still looks for letters from some kind readers.

MRS. N. F.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. N. A. C. for the suit, and your offer of shoes will be held for replies. Also the offer of a home for some mother and child. Glad to make Aaron Winnifred's desire, for more correspondents.

The Poor Are Generous

Editor Helping Hand:

I want to thank you for getting me in touch with a G. C. who took my little girl for a vacation. Poor mother, she has not any too much for herself. What a lovely woman, good hearted and generous, and so willing to do good for someone else. I trust I will be able to do some good myself soon.

MRS. McL.

It seems to be the ones who have to count the pennies that are most generous, although there have been several of the better off who have offerd aid.

Girls Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have two little girls age ten and twelve in Lee-McRay School, Banner Elk, N. C. I am trying to pay their way through by working in the cotton mills. I was not able to get work during the greater part of the Summer and I have gotten behind with their tuition. If any reader has girl's clothing that they can't use, I would be glad to get them—anything except overcoats. They both wear dresses size twelve.

KING BASEBALL'S NEW MILLION DOLLAR CROWN

By Herbert Kaufman

YESTERDAY'S millionaires largely carried spades, puddling irons, plows, locomotive tenders and yardsticks on their coats of arms.

If interest in prize fights and ball games keeps up present clips we'll shortly have a new plutocratic class with boxing and catching gloves on their shields.

The Dempsey-Firpo bout introduced million-dollar receipts to sporting history. The World's Series fast follows, breaking all records by a $1,063,000 attendance.

Considering the mounting salaries of crack players and the $362,000 bonus just divided between the league leaders—heavily represented by university men—folk will soon quit saying that college education doesn't pay.

The Canadian Runs Amok

The Canadian River catches the fever, and also sets out to break precedents. Engineering hasn't yet devised structures to withstand the crazy moods of that temperamental stream.

No one ever knows when it's ready to run amok, leap banks, chew steel girders as though taffy, and wash a county from sight.

Reports indicate the worst floods Oklahoma has ever experienced. At this writing, a resistless broom, two miles wide and five feet thick, is sweeping barns, farmhouses and livestock pellmell toward the capital.

Fifty-five bridges and eighty-two miles of railroad have already disappeared. Three great transportation systems are forced to suspend operations. An event likely to dampen ardor for Governor Walton's scalp. Drowning Commonwealths don't clutch at political straws.

Just one example of the wasted energy which future America will harness and put to constructive tasks. Power dams and electric turbines are much less expensive than such havoc. Conservation pays its way—and then some.

A Sahara Without an Oasis

We'll need every drop of water in sight if the organized churches and Governor Pinchot have anything to do about it.

A Sahara without a single oasis is their conception of the United States under properly enforced prohibition.

The Eighteenth Amendment, they declare, is held in contempt mainly because Washington secretly encourages its defiance.

Prominent ministers call for a showdown from Coolidge and suggest that he assume direct charge of bootleg suppression, comparing the emergency with the "whiskey rebellion" in George Washington's administration.

Pinchot's manifest attempt to cross from Harrisburg to the White House on a bone-dry plank leads observers to believe that the President may once more pass the buck and say in effect, as he practically did in the anthracite crisis, "Cut bait or fish. Since you don't agree with my way of handling the situation, suppose you assume charge."

Nothing like giving a bothersome ambition rope enough to hang itself with.

Dashing Several European Hopes

Congressman Fred Britten no longer advocates the recognition of Russia. The former leading proponent of a commercial treaty with the Soviets returns from Moscow convinced that Bolshevism is an ephemeral experiment, and intends to oppose opening relations "with a visionary government whose very foundation is based on anarchy, murder and theft."

His advice would be far more effective had his original opinions been tempered with a slight degree of reserve. Legislators who suddenly grow hot and cold on the same proposition don't inspire much confidence hereabouts.

Senator Smoot, speaking for the Debt Funding Commission, announces that delinquent foreign creditors will shortly be called to the scratch.

Europe shan't keep spending our money on air fleets and armies. There'll be less rowing and jawing abroad after governments yonder realize that twelve billion dollars must be entered on their books as a fixed liability.

Now you will get par value for Liberty and Victory Bonds.

Selective Immigrants or None

Members of the American Legion, convening at San Francisco, are told by Secretary Davis that we should have selective immigration or none. Present laws are not sufficiently stringent.

He sustains the conviction, so often expressed in this column, that national safety requires examination of prospective citizens at ports of departure, the right of U. S. Consuls to refuse vises to ineligibles and besides seek Congressional sanction to enroll aliens the moment they land, keeping track of them for five years, so that any illegally here, or unlawfully engaged, may be easier caught and deported.

The melting pot will be permanently fouled if we continue to admit inferior and diseased strains to the sound veins and clean opportunities of the Republic.

Welcome and encouragement await none but those who bring sturdy bodies and honest intents from abroad.

These must pledge themselves "to accept our ideals, customs and institutions and contribute whole-heartedly to national advancement."

Meanwhile, peril impends through unchecked human bootlegging. Anywhere from a hundred to a thousand contraband persons are sneaked ashore or across borders daily.

Criminals, sufferers from vile infections, imbeciles and morons are thus slipped into unwary communities, with heaven knows what aftermaths.

Millions for pork barrels, but pennies for defence against possible wars and omnipresent perils!

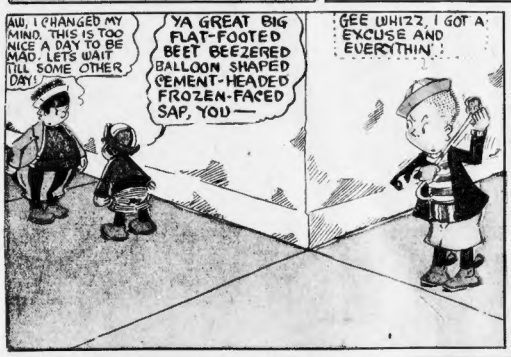
NOW I'M GOOD AND MAD TO-DAY AND I'M GONNA GET EVEN ON SHRIMP FLYNN, BUT I GOTTA STAY MAD TILL I FIND HIM, SO YOU JUST KEEP CALLIN' ME NAMES SO'S I WON'T FORGET 'CAUSE IT'S AWFUL HARD FOR ME TO KEEP MAD ON A DAY LIKE THIS, GET ME?
O.K.!

S'ALL RIGHT, TAKE YOUR TIME AND THINK OF A LOTTA GOOD ONES!
I AIN'T TRYIN' TA THINK OF GOOD ONES 'I'M TRYIN' TA THINK OF BAD ONES, YOU SAP!

IF A FISH WAS A BIRD, HE'D SWIM IN THE SKY EACH TIME HE TOOK A NOTION, AND IF A BIRD WAS A FISH, IT WOULD ONLY BE FAIR TO LET HIM FLY IN THE OCEAN — AND —
CUT THAT OUT YOU —



AW, I CHANGED MY MIND. THIS IS TOO NICE A DAY TO BE MAD. LETS WAIT TILL SOME OTHER DAY!
YA GREAT BIG FLAT-FOOTED BEET BEEZERED BALLOON SHAPED CEMENT-HEADED FROZEN-FACED SAP, YOU —
GEE WHIZZ, I GOT A EXCUSE AND EVERYTHIN'!

HAR!-HAR! HAR!
TAKE THAT YOU SAP!
I NEVER IN MY LIFE SEEN SUCH LUCK!

How Two Big Blue Eyes Tamed the "Terror of Crete"

An Appealing American Girl Melted Barbounis, the Bullying, Butchering Bandit, Where All Greece Had Failed to Subdue This Villainous "Villa of Canea"

Comely Miss Margaret Robinson, of Grand Rapids, Mich., Whose Compelling Blue Eyes Caused Barbounis, the Bandit, to Reform.

THE most bloodthirsty ruffian of the Levant; the Greek bandit chieftain before whom countless men cringed; the "Terror of Crete," who carried a knife between his teeth as easily as the ordinary person would a toothpick — defied and tamed by a young American girl's big blue eyes!

This is the amazing story which recent cablegrams from Athens have brought humming across the Atlantic. And it is a story replete with thrilling incident, not a little spice of humor, and dramatic intensity unparalleled. All Athens is still shaking its collective head and raising its collective hands over the astonishing quality of the episode.

The tyrant who was forced to bow the knee to youth, beauty and intelligence is Hermos Barbounis, notorious and powerful Greek outlaw, who had been terrorizing the Island of Crete for years, and on whose swarthy head a heavy price was set long ago.

The heroine of the real-life drama was Miss Margaret Robinson, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, who not only subjugated Barbounis, but "reformed" him, and gained the thanks of the Greek Government.

The bandit lived in a seemingly impregnable mountain fastness, surrounded by a large number of devoted followers, wearing the picturesque costumes of their kind, but armed with modern rifles and machine guns. Barbounis had a reputation for inhuman cruelty, as well as great cunning and courage, and every sort of crime and outrage was attributed to him and his ferocious followers.

Many Cretans and Greeks had met death at his hands, but repeated efforts to capture or slay him had always been defeated with severe losses dealt the military forces and police who had attacked him.

In fact, Barbounis and his band had become a recognized power on the island, and there were some towns and cities which paid him regular tribute.

This was the state of affairs when Miss Robinson, frail, pretty and blonde, arrived on the island, as a representative of the Near East Relief.

A graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, who had specialized in sociological work, she was not directly concerned in the politics or guerilla warfare of the island, but used all her efforts to distribute food and other relief supplies to refugees and poor folk among the villages.

She only became interested in the bandit chief Barbounis when his men interfered with some of her native agents in the distribution of foodstuffs, and she determined, in spite of his reputation for bloodthirstiness and wickedness, to make a direct appeal to him.

She wrote a letter, explaining what she and the American Relief were doing, and asking him to let her representatives alone. This letter was conveyed to him by a mountaineer— and was received, it is said, with loud shouts of derisive laughter. "Why shouldn't I and my troopers seize food of the Relief Expedition if we need it? And who is going to stop me?" muttered the "Terror of Crete." The letter got no response and the raiding continued.

A short time later the bandit chief was amazed to receive another message from the American girl. This time it was sent to him, in the mountains, by one of her own envoys, and it asked for nothing less than a personal meeting with Barbounis in any secluded place which he chose to designate.

Barbounis was too powerful and well protected to fear a trap, and he was so astonished at such a request that he sent back word that he would indeed meet her, provided she would be at a certain spot on a mountain road on the following Friday afternoon, and that she would come with only two escorts, both unarmed.

When the afternoon arrived, Barbounis was treated to another surprise. Being vain as well as courageous, he had decked himself out in a gala costume, such as Greek bandits and mountain adventurers have worn for five hundred years—short, white, starched skirts, cut something like a Scotch kilt; brilliant colored and lavishly embroidered jacket and sash, with a scarlet cap (suggesting an organ grinder's monkey) perched on the top of his head. If one hadn't known his real reputation for bloodthirsty wickedness he might easily have been mistaken for a comic opera bandit.

Along with him, similarly though less gorgeously garbed, came twenty of his picked followers, all armed with knives and rifles.

The next shock for the bandit chief was when Miss Robinson arrived—alone. She hadn't even brought the two escorts whom he had offered to let her bring along. She cantered calmly on horseback up the mountain, ten minutes late as was her womanly privilege, and soon was standing, unarmed, in a circle of swarthy faces, before the ruffian who had slain nobody knows how many hundreds of men.

A curious sight they must have presented—the slender, blonde young girl in riding breeches, her lovely eyes flashing azure fire, and the ferocious bandit in starched white skirts, facing each other there on the roadside among the towering mountains.

Barbounis was thoroughly good-humored. "How it is you weren't afraid to come alone?" he asked. "Because I knew you wouldn't hurt me, particularly if I came unarmed and unattended," replied the girl.

The bandit was nonplussed at this answer and seemed embarrassed. "Well," he replied after a pause, "that is true, what you say, though my enemies wouldn't believe it. You shan't be harmed. But why do you come?"

"I've come," said Miss Robinson, "to tell you that you've got to let my men and their supplies and the foodstuffs and other property of the Near East Relief strictly alone. It's none of my business, although I think you are a very bad man, whether you steal all the private property in Crete. But these supplies in my charge are the property of the United States. There are American cruisers in the Mediterranean, and on those American cruisers are many hundreds of American marines.

"Also there is the wireless, which, I am told, you know all about and occasionally use yourself. Now I am here to tell you that if your men take so much as a single basket of provisions from my workers in the future, I'm going to scream so loudly about it that they will hear me all the way to Washington; and those marines will be up here to clean you out, if they have to bring their cannon and blow up the mountain to do it."

If this were a story of imagination instead of fact it might be added that the Greek bandit turned pale and quaked in his shoes, and showed great fear of the American marines and promised to be good in the future. But nothing of the kind occurred. He was not in the least afraid of the marines, for the simple reason that he knew they wouldn't be sent. What did actually occur was wholly unexpected, though much of it was undoubtedly due to the singular purity and splendor of Miss Robinson's gaze as she swept him with her famous blue eyes.

Any man who attains the success that Barbounis had attained, even as a rascal, must be a man of brains. And Barbounis' brains had been working on something else all the while the girl was talking about her baskets of provisions and the American marines—in neither of which he was in the slightest degree interested.

Instead of giving her a direct answer, he invited her to sit down and talk with him, apart from his followers. They conversed earnestly for half an hour. He seemed to be presenting some kind of a problem to her and she seemed to be giving him advice. Presently he saluted and she got up and rode away.

Following that interview, Miss Robinson made a trip to Athens. A short time afterward the Greek Government sent Barbounis a formal offer of pardon and amnesty for himself and his followers, provided he and his men joined the national forces as loyal soldiers on the frontier.

After brief negotiations amnesty was granted Barbounis, the "Terror of Crete," and the bandit and his followers embarked from Canea, superbly mounted and armed, to join a regiment at Dede Agach.

Thus a resourceful and courageous American girl succeeded in ridding Crete of a terrible bandit, and gave a new twist to the modern annals of feminine heroism. But whether success would have crowned her efforts if her eyes had been lustreless gray, or dull black, or plain green or brown, no one—not even she herself—can say!

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

SO many housewives are trying to cut down living expenses that when they have company at night they very seldom serve supper any more. After this, when you go calling in the evening, it's best to take a couple of sandwiches with you.

ALONG toward 10 or 11 o'clock, if you begin feeling faint, it's perfectly permissible to stop playing cards while you eat one of the sandwiches.

BUT you should always go out on the front porch. If you chew it in the parlor, you're liable to make the other guests hungry.

IF you like to drink with your meals, there's no harm in bringing a little coffee along with you in a hot water bag.

BUT you mustn't drop your bread, buttered-side down, on the carpet or throw the crusts under the sofa.

IF you bring any canned goods with you, you shouldn't open them on the piano.

YOU ought to carry your own can-opener. It's very hard to open a can of beans with manicuring scissors.

LUNCHEON outfits should be carried in a paper box or a valise. You wouldn't look smartly dressed with a bottle of catsup sticking out of one pocket and a double boiler sitting in the other.

BESIDES, when you call on anybody in the evening, you don't want to look like you've come on a camping trip.

ONE guy did this and he was so loaded down with pots and pans and food that he forgot where he was and started to build a fire in the middle of his host's living room.

HE was afraid that if he didn't cook it right away, the food would spoil. He was crazy, he could have put it on the steam radiator or any other cold place.

CLEAN HOUSE, LITERALLY AND FIGURATIVELY, TO GATHER UP LOOSE ENDS

Did you ever wonder why your brain feels so befogged at times?

Then did you clean out your desk and all your belongings, putting everything in apple-pie order, to find the orderly procedure had straightened out more than the material things?

It is true that the feeling of inability to think comes sometimes from a cluttered up condition of the material things around you.

So house-cleaning, both at home and at the office, is very necessary, bringing about just the thing you have wished for without knowing how to get about it.

The most embarrassing position I ever had to endure was during my honeymoon trip. I had previously exploited myself to my wife as a wonderful duck hunter and promised her a party with some friends. After our marriage she invited her girl chum and her friend, a prominent vaudeville artist, who was playing in town at the time. I arose at 3 a. m. the first morning at camp and went out and brought down seven birds. By late afternoon the wife had the meal ready and we all sat down with great pride to the feast. What was my surprise and deep embarrassment when our actor-guest who knew duck, discovered that I had shot sea-gulls instead of ducks. That was my secon dand last trip as a duck hunter.
